HARDING BUSY ON RETURN TO U. S.

Delivers Five Speeches After Arrival in Virginia.

VIEWS SHIPBUILDING YARDS

Senator Also Inspects the Naval and Army Bases.

NORFOLK, Va.—President-elect Warren G. Harding ended his vacation when he docked at Newport News Saturday, and plunged into a crowded day more strenuous than champagne day.

Five speeches, inspection of shipbuilding yards at Newport News, the naval and the army bases and the navy yard at Norfolk, made up his busy day.

His speeches contained little he had not said before and he avoided for the most part current issues.

"I cannot talk politics tonight," Harding said at the Norfolk tannery. "You elect a president and then for four months place him where he must remain in a state of innocuous desuetude or face embarrassment."

"I am the last man that would give offense to the president by assuming to speak in advance of my time."

At the business men's dinner later, Harding dealt with commerce and the merchant marine.

FOR SHIP SUBSIDIES

Harding came out in his tabernacle speech for ship subsidies provided the LaFollette seamen's act is retained.

"If the LaFollette seamen's law represents the conscience of America, and I believe it does," he said, "in all fairness the government ought to step in and share the burden it imposes on American shipping in higher wages."

Opposition to ship subsidies and subventions came, he said, from the Hamburg-American North German Lloyd interests and this opposition may have been linked with the German scheme of world supremacy.

"Oh, a lot of you are bound Democrats and a lot of miserable mugwump Republicans have been utterly blind to the necessity of the American government giving thought to the making of merchant marine," he said.

MAY VISIT WILSON

Whether Harding will address the senate or visit President Wilson while he is in Washington next week, was still in doubt Saturday night.

He will address the senate if his colleagues invite him to do so, it is believed. As to visiting the White House, Harding will be confronted with a delicate situation, should President Wilson issue a formal invitation. In the absence of such invitation President-elect Harding will make no visit.

Harding's talk at the tabernacle was largely informal and chatty. "I don't want to cheat you," he said, laughing with a confidential mood. "I am no super-man. I am just an ordinary fellow-American. I should hesitate to approach the responsibilities of the presidency, if I did not believe the American people, with all their hearts, were with me."

WOULD END SECTIONALISM

Throughout all his speeches here Saturday, Harding earnestly pleaded that sectionalism be ended.

After reviewing the enlisted men at the naval base here Saturday afternoon, Harding made a brief talk to the blue-jackets. No nation, he said, can hope to be eminent without a naval establishment adequate to protect its interests.

"I want a nation righteous in purposes, righteous in commerce and then everlasting determined to protect its commerce and its rights," Harding said. "I can only speak as a private citizen, but I have in my heart the pride of a private citizen in such a representation of American manhood. When it is mine to come to responsibility, I want to have your confidence and I know you will have mine. I hope you will continue your devotion and service to your country, and I hope you will never be called on to fire a gun in defense of this country."

LIGHT SHIP FOUND

Nantucket Vessel Torn Away by Storm, But Safe.

BOSTON, Mass.—The Nantucket Shoal lightship, leading mark for all trans-Atlantic ships making port at New York, was torn away from its lonely and important station in a storm Thursday night and caused confusion among the vessels that skirted the dangerous shoals. After inquiry from several ships that missed the floating beacon and wireless coming of the sea, the mystery of the lightship's disappearance was solved when she put in at New Bedford Saturday.

All was well with those aboard, but new moorings and other apparatus were needed before she could take her ocean outpost duty again.

INFLUX OF CRIMINALS IS FEARED BY OFFICIALS

Safety Director Appeals to Public to Cooperate in Keeping Lawless Element Out of Lima—Bold Daylight Holdup Is Staged Here Saturday

Store Keeper Lured Into Alley and Relieved of Big Sum—Thugs Escape—Cast-offs from Other Cities May Come this Way

Thugs are growing bold in Lima. Daylight holdups have been started and a season of terror faces the city unless the lawless element is kept out, Safety Director Fred Fisher declared last night.

Three armed men held up William Fullerton, proprietor of a soft drink emporium and restaurant at 811 S. Main-st at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and relieved him of more than $150 in currency. They escaped.

Other cities are driving out the criminals and it is feared many will come to Lima, Safer Fisher said. He issued an appeal to the people of the city to assist in keeping them out.

"We want the public to cooperate by reporting all suspicious characters or strangers who cannot give a satisfactory explanation for being here," Fisher said. "We must check the flow of undesirable from other cities before it gets under way. I believe we will be able to do this."

"Orders have been issued to the police to take no chances. Persons who can give no good reason for being here will be rounded up and compelled to leave the city. We cannot harbor the criminals other cities are driving out," he said.

Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and other Ohio cities are making drives on the lawless element. Chicago also is making it unpleasant for them. It is expected that many of them will hit Lima in their wandering, but they will find no welcome.

The robbery of Fullerton yesterday was one of the boldest holdups staged here in months. A man attired as a farmer called at Fullerton's store and offered him potatoes at a sacrifice. Fullerton was interested and the two left in the wagon for the place where the stranger said the potatoes were stored.

TRIO IS ARMED
After driving several blocks the driver turned into an alley between Prospect-st and Harrison-ave. Fullerton was surprised to feel the muzzle of a heavy caliber revolver against his ribs. Two armed men stepped out and Fullerton was forced to alight from the wagon. The two confederates searched him and removed his wallet containing more than $150 in bills.

The trio abandoned the wagon, making good their escape. Police were given meager descriptions of them by Fullerton. It is believed they knew Fullerton's habits. They were thought to have escaped on an interurban car or train.

ACCOUNTS SHORT

Clerk of Portsmouth Charged With Altering Records.

COLUMBUS—Examiner Ferguson of the state bureau of accounting Saturday announced a finding of $296 against Joseph T. Kerrigan, who resigned as clerk of Portsmouth October 16 and whose accounts, when audited, showed a shortage of that amount. The examiner charges Kerrigan with altering city records to cover his discrepancies and says that the clerk admitted having taken the money, but expected to pay it back.

Kerrigan went to Cincinnati after resigning. In telephone conversation with the examiner he agreed to make good his shortage by a certain date, the examiner's report shows, but failed to do so, upon which his surety, Daniel Flannigan, of Portsmouth, made restitution for him.

Alteration or mutilation of public records is punishable by a fine of $500 or three months confinement in jail, or both, the examiner indicates.

OFFICIAL RESIGNS

TOLEDO—Announcement was made here Saturday that Clarence Earl has resigned as vice-president of the Willis-Overland Company and that Charles B. Wilson, of Pontiac, Mich., had been appointed as his successor. Wilson is general manager of the Wilson Foundry and Machine Company, of Pontiac.

ROBBERS SENTENCED.
DES MOINES, Iowa.—Keith Collins pleaded guilty in the federal district court to complicity in the recent robbery of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy mail train at Council Bluffs, in which money and bonds estimated at more than three million dollars were taken. Judge Martin Wade sentenced him to fifteen months in prison.

PEACE IN IRELAND MAY BE NEAR

Lloyd-George Negotiates With Sinn Fein Leaders.

PREMIER SEEKS GUARANTEE

Demands Absolute Cessation of Attacks on Officers.

LONDON—Rumors of impending peace in Ireland few thick and fast here Saturday night.

Prime Minister Lloyd-George from behind the barricades and bayonets that guard his residence at historic Number 10 Downing-st., was reported to be conducting quiet, unofficial negotiations with Sinn Fein leaders, seeking a basis for peace.

The premier, it is understood, is holding out for an absolute cessation of attacks on British forces in Ireland, before there are any open peace proceedings. This would vindicate his Irish policy, supporters of the ministry declare, and greatly strengthen the government's position.

"SOMETHING IN THE WIND"

Lloyd-George's reported dickering with the Sinn Fein were without any official confirmation whatever, and it was believed that if they came to naught, nothing official or semi-official ever would be permitted to leak out concerning them. Belief that there "is something in the wind," however, was bolstered up by a dispatch from Dublin Saturday afternoon, reporting that the Galway council, all Sinn Fein, had passed a resolution, requesting the Irish parliament to appoint three delegates to negotiate a truce with British forces to be followed by an honorable peace.

GUARANTEE SOUGHT

One report in circulation was that Arthur Griffith, leading head of the Sinn Fein, who was arrested in a recent raid, would be asked to guarantee cessation of attacks and that he and other leaders seized in the recent "roundup" of Sinn Fein chiefs throughout Ireland would be liberated, if they promised to restore order and abide by the decisions of the proposed peace tribunal.

Ireland was quiet, but whether because there was a prospect of a "Christmas peace," or because the Sinn Fein leaders were under arrest, could not be told.

England was on the qui vive Saturday, half expecting another massacre of British officers before the week-end. The last two week-ends have been marked by such assassinations.

GAS RATES RAISED

Company Offers to Renew Franchise With Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—The East Ohio Gas Company Saturday offered to renew its franchise with the city, which expires next February, with a sliding rate ranging from fifty-five cents per thousand cubic feet up to one dollar and five cents with a five cent discount for ten day payment on the bills, based on not more than a two year franchise. The present rate is thirty-five cents per thousand feet. With the discount, the new rates range from fifty cents to one dollar.

The new rates proposed by the company provide for a minimum price of fifty-five cents for the first three thousand feet; sixty cents for the second five thousand; sixty-five cents for the next ten thousand feet and one dollar and five cents for all over twenty thousand feet.

City council public utilities committee regards the new proposal unsatisfactory.

BURIED UNDER TONS OF BARBED WIRE, OHIO MAN LIVES; HORSE IS KILLED

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio.—Fred C. Donahue, 35, had a miraculous escape from death here Saturday afternoon, when he was buried under several tons of barbed wire and two huge drills. Donahue was driving a wagon into a storage house when the second floor collapsed.

While he was badly hurt, heavy timbers formed a protective arch and saved him from being crushed. The horse was killed.

BODY FOUND
CLEVELAND—The body of an unknown man was found on a cinder dump Saturday. Police believe he was asphyxiated and burned to death after going to sleep on the dump.

WHO'S YOUR FAVORITE MOVIE STAR, MALE AND FEMALE?

WELL, folks, we're going to run another contest. This one, however, is going to be a comparatively easy one and will not incur the trouble of writing rhyms or poetry or anything like that. What we are trying to get at, is: "Who is the most popular motion picture actor and actress?"

There are hundreds of Norma Talmadge fans, we know. And there are those who would walk six miles to see Mary Pickford in a picture. And Wallace Reid! Watch the high school lassies vote for him.

Eugene O'Brien, too, is sure to get his share of votes, don't you think? And Richard Barthelmess and Thomas Meighan, and dozens of others just as popular.

The little coupon printed below is all that you will need. Just fill in the blank as specified thereon. And if you get only one paper in your house, better fill it out and send it in before somebody else gets ahead of you.

Each day we are going to print the returns—it'll be almost as interesting as election—and you can keep tab on how your favorite is coming along.

If you can help it, please don't write with pencil. My eyesight's poor:

HERE'S THE COUPON

Of all the stars I like to see
Upon the screen—give these to me!

WESTERN WORLD MAY QUIT

All Latin-American Nations Threaten to Withdraw.

CANADA ALSO IN REVOLT

Breach, Opened by Argentina Continues to Widen.

GENEVA—The league of nations Saturday night faced a revolt of the powers of the western hemisphere, which threatened it with possible disaster.

The Argentine delegation has withdrawn from the assembly. All the other Latin-American nations are reported preparing to follow. Canada, New Zealand and Australia have swung to the support of Argentina.

"There is no knowing where this will halt," Arthur Balfour, British representative, declared in an agitated manner to the United Press correspondent.

Vicent, of France, and Tittoni, of Italy, also were plainly excited. Officials hurried about with tense, worried expressions.

Many conferences were scheduled for the week-end in an effort to agree on a line of action before Monday's meeting.

Several delegates said that what they feared would happen, had happened; that the new world was arraying itself against the old world's ideals and ideas. Many well-informed delegates were admittedly alarmed, fearing that the league structure, built up out of the blood and agony of war, was crumbling away before their eyes.

OPENING OF BREACH

The breach was opened when the Argentine delegation themselves on Saturday's session on the ground that President Paul Hymans had unjustly overruled the vote of Buenos Aires. They declared that they would back up Puyredon in an attempt to secure recognition of Argentina's amendments until 1921. However, when Hymans called on Puyredon and told him the questions probably would be re-opened, Puyredon refused to return unless four amendments introduced by the Argentine delegation were passed at once.

The chasm was widened when Charles Doherty, minister of justice of Canada, introduced a resolution to eliminate Article ten which has been described as President Wilson as the "heart of the covenant." The article guaranteed the territorial integrity of member states against aggressions.

ARGENTINA WINS SUPPORT

C. N. Powell, of Canada, exploded a bomb shell when he declared he would back up Puyredon in an attempt to secure recognition of Argentina's amendments. Australians and New Zealanders swung into line and threw their support to Argentina. There were the wildest conjectures as to what would result from the bolt and the threatened bolts. With Latin-America, Canada, Australia and New Zealand trembling on the verge of quitting the assembly, the more pessimists of the old world delegates did not see how the league could hold together.

"The withdrawal was on my initiative, but in full accordance with the wishes of my government," said Puyredon.

"We will remain at Geneva until Tuesday, winding up our affairs. Then we will leave, unless the assembly passes our amendments. We will not be present Monday."

AMENDMENTS OFFERED

The amendments introduced by the Argentine provide for admission of all sovereign states to the league for admission of delegates from small states which are not entitled to full membership, for election of the council by the assembly and for the international tribunal to have compulsory jurisdiction over disputes.

The trouble which now seems to threaten to wreck the league started when the assembly had before it a motion to refer all amendments to a commission and take no action on them until 1921. This was considered desirable, because it was expected the United States would want certain changes made in the covenant, if it came in, and leaders did not want to make changes in two sessions. When the proposition of deferring amendments came to a vote, Puyredon cast his ballot against it.

ARGENTINA DEFEATED

President Hymans held a unanimous vote was not necessary in case of procedure, and that therefore the motion prevailed despite Argentina's adverse ballot. Puyredon contended it was not a matter of procedure but he was overruled by Hymans.

Rumors that Argentina would withdraw, were circulated shortly afterward. At Saturday morning's session, the Argentines failed to appear, although Puyredon denied they had any intention of withdrawing. A short time afterward, however, he notified Hymans that the delegation had withdrawn. Meanwhile, a number of other delegations had unofficially expressed sympathy with the Argentine and there was considerable sentiment in favor of reopening the still were arrested.

WOMAN DEFENDS UNTRUE MATE

Mrs. Jake Hamon Tries to Shield
Slain Husband.

'LURED FROM HER BY BEAUTY'

Widow Talks as Alleged Murder-ess is Hunted.

ARDMORE, Okla.—Another picture of Jake Hamon was painted Saturday night as the hunt for his slayer was being pushed through the southwest. It portrayed him as the victim of a "daring person," who after winning his affections and breaking up his family, finally took his life.

The "other side" of the life of the millionaire oil king and politician was described by his widow in a bitter denunciation of Mrs. Clara Smith Hamon, the alleged murderer.

Incidentally, Mrs. Hamon denounced the diary now being published as "the work of some unscrupulous newspaper writer," declaring that Clara Smith never had the ability to write a diary in that fashion.

STRUGGLE OF WIFE
Mrs. Hamon's story was that of a wife, grown prematurely old due to the privations of poverty in early life, who did not have to go through the struggle, "come along with her beauty and parade" with her husband who had become a millionaire.

"Living in a tent, taking care of the children and trying to assist a husband to get ahead in the world made me old and it would make her old," the widow cried. "I have never but once asked Mr. Hamon to get up at night and take care of the children."

Mr. Hamon told her story to the United Press as she prepared to leave for Oklahoma City to purchase mourning clothes in memory of her husband to whom she remained faithful despite his warring.

It was the first time she had spoken since her husband was mysteriously shot in the hotel here, except to reiterate her confidence in him.

"After I had grown old, she came along with her beauty and insulted me by parading with my husband," she said.

OBJECTS TO NAME

The thing Mrs. Hamon resents most bitterly was the fact that the "other woman" bore the name of "Hamon."

"I can bear the hardships of it all if they will only call her by her right name, instead of using the name 'Hamon,'" the widow said.

Mrs. Hamon explained that Clara Smith's marriage to the nephew at Weatherford, Tex. She said the woman went to the nephew and told him that Hamon had sent her to marry him. The nephew, "who would do anything to please his uncle, married her," Mrs. Hamon said. "We were in New York at the time, so it would have been impossible for Mr. Hamon to have prevented it," the widow continued.

She said a divorce was granted later and Clara Smith "consequently has no right to the name."

DEFENDS HUSBAND

Mrs. Hamon defended her husband against attacks alleged to have been made by Clara Smith in the diary.

"I have lived with Mr. Hamon between the four walls and no one could be kinder to me than he," she said. "If he was cross and ugly to Clara Smith, it must have been because she provoked his wrath by doing something she should not have done. I lived with Mr. Hamon 22 years—much longer than she—and I should know."

Mrs. Hamon said Clara Smith, too, had grown old and that the pictures which have been published of her "do not resemble the Smith person, for she is much older and much worse looking than when the pictures were taken."

"If the world knew her as she is, it would not continue to flaunt her name and picture before the public," she said.

The trail of Clara Smith Hamon, fleeing from a charge of murdering Jake Hamon, had again grown cold Saturday night. After tracing the fugitive as far as Sweetwater, Texas, apparently bound for Mexico, the trail again vanished.

Frank Ketch, Hamon's business manager and executor of the estate, still holds evidence needed against the woman, Russell Brown, prosecutor, claimed. He said Ketch had the small revolver with which Hamon was shot and the clothes he wore at the time.

COLBY SAILS FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Secretary of State Leaves on Battleship Florida.

NORFOLK, Va. — "Well, admiral, come on, we'll drop in on Brazil."

With these words, Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby stepped into a shining ship Saturday at the government wharf at Fortress Monroe.

Colby, a mile away in the waters of Hampton Roads, and a half hour later was standing on the bridge of the dreadnaught steaming outward for South America.

The secretary's faulty statement was addressed to Rear Admiral Basset, the naval aide for Colby on the South American visit. The words typified the zest and holiday spirit with which Colby entered into the ceremonies incident to his departure.

Saturday was a day of formalities for Colby. The echoes of Hampton Roads were kept busy with a salute of 21 guns as the battleship Florida, escorted by a fleet of destroyers, sailed for the open sea.

As the battleship passed the Mayflower, Colby stepped out on deck, saying, "I have just sent a message by wireless to Senator Harding."

The message "expressed the hope that Senator Harding would be well and refreshed" by his trip. Officers of the Florida said there "was nothing in the regulations providing for a salute to Senator Harding."

the question. It was understood that this was to be done, but when Hyman called on Pueyrredon to advise him of it, he was met with the flat demand for passage of the four amendments.

At Saturday's plenary session, the first commission presented a report signed by Howell of Canada, and Viviani of France, with regard to the important questions of relations between the assembly and the council.

The report urged the assembly to adopt the following definition of the relationship. Both the council and the assembly are invested with particular powers and duties, and neither has jurisdiction to render a decision in a matter expressly referred to the other.

The assembly has no right to modify or reverse the council's decisions on matters within its exclusive jurisdiction.

The council must report yearly to the assembly. Serbia, Bolivia and Venezuela replied Saturday to the invitation extended to all nations to mediate in Armenia. They said they sympathized with the proposition, but they were unable to undertake it themselves, and urged that it be entrusted to a single great power.

ARTICLE 10 FIGHT
Article 10 promised to come to the fore in the assembly almost to the extent it did in the presidential campaign in America. The announcement of C. J. Doherty, Canada, that he will move the elimination of the article was met by some objection.

Lord Robert Cecil told the United Press correspondent he will introduce a counter-proposal asking that Article 10 be interpreted, to remove obligatory actions in case of aggression against a member nation.

"I am opposed to any change or alteration in the covenant at any time," declared A. J. Balfour.

Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate, asserted he was ready to accept any action regarding the article, even elimination, if its presence will prevent America's joining the league.

Priddy Nansen, Norwegian, said he believed any action would be acceptable if it overcame America's objections.

RENEWED WAR SEEN

In the session Saturday, G. N. Barnes, British delegate and labor leader, demanded a reason for the council's failure to intervene in the Russo-Polish war. He declared another outbreak in 1921 is inevitable, demanding that preventative steps be taken now.

Failure to intervene had created the impression that the council was partial to Poland, he asserted.

M. Paderewski, former Polish premier, congratulated the British delegate on his statements. Poland has been unjustly accused of territorial ambitions, he declared.

"Poland was forced to defend her own territory," he asserted. "My country desires peace, but it was should be forced on her again she will fight to the last."

M. Viviani, France, defended the council for not intervening. He claimed the soviet government had refused to entertain a committee of investigation and that the Russian government, therefore was partly to be blamed. Neither country asked for league help, he said.

The league can exert only a moral force," M. Viviani declared. "That force was useless against the soviets. We couldn't ask the powers for troops to intervene in Russia. Hence, action was most difficult."

count on Democrats supporting it because of the demand for return to normal conditions as rapidly as possible.

OTHER BILLS STATED

Not all of the war bills will be included in the repealing act, but the Overman act, allowing the president to reorganize or coordinate government bureaus, the espionage act, the selective service act, the Lever food and fuel act, the service men's moratorium act, the censorship of foreign language publication and acts creating many of the war bureaus are slated to go.

Whether the trading with the enemy act, which prevents trade with Germany, shall be repealed immediately, has not yet been determined, although many in the house favor such action. The question of whether the war finance corporation shall be revived probably will come up during the consideration of the repealer.

Such acts are those providing for the war risk insurance bureau and the alien property custodian must be continued, it is generally admitted.

War-time prohibition will be probably included in the repeal, but since constitutional prohibition is effective, not even the Anti Saloon League is expected to object to that.

The steering committee was said to be unanimous in the belief that the increasing flood of immigrants with unemployment and congested living conditions in this country demand immediate attention.

CYCLIST IS RUN DOWN AND INJURED BY AUTO

E. E. Smith, 28, 424 1-2 N. Metcalf-st, was badly bruised and his leg was injured when he was run down by an automobile at Washington and North-sts, Saturday evening. He was riding a bicycle. The identity of the driver of the automobile was not learned.

Smith was returning home from work. He was removed to his home in the Williams and Davis ambulance.

$1,000,000 FUND TO BACK STRIKE

West Virginia Miners' Leader
Sees Financial Support.

CLAIMS VICTORY IN SIGHT

Both Sides Seen Pleased With Military Control.

(BY HAROLD D. JACOBS)

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. — Well-filled stomachs and pocketbooks gave confidence of final victory to coal strikers in the Williamson district Saturday night.

Saturday was "pay day." Semi-monthly strike benefits were distributed from the little brick building here that serves as headquarters. The miners, slumping away with their checks, squared their shoulders to continue the fight. They had conquered the blues that descended on them earlier in the week when they were confined to their floorless tents by a cold drizzle of rain.

Additional comfort was given them when "C" leaders provided them with lumber to floor their tents. The prospect of fairly comfortable shelter was another cause for the determination expressed everywhere to carry on the fight.

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Coal operators claimed they had reduced the strikers to 400. Strike leaders asserted 2,500 still were out and would remain out, certain of more support from the United Mine Workers of America and confident of final victory.

Military occupation of the Williamson district, has the qualified support of all factions in the strike, it was learned Saturday night. Operators believe modified martial law in effect means enforcement of civil laws and will enable them to reopen their idle mines without molestation.

Stickers have approved the fairness of Colonel Herbert Hall, commanding the troops here and declare they will be permitted to do picketing without interference.

Governor Cornwell told the correspondent over the long distance telephone that he was certain that the presence of troops meant the restoration of normal conditions within a short time. The hunt of violence since the troops mounted guard a week ago, was three instances of rifle firing from the Kentucky side of the Tug river. There were no casualties. Future trouble of this sort was believed eliminated when Colonel Hall agreed with Major Morley of the Kentucky militia on an extension of his sphere of influence to the Kentucky side, should it be necessary.

Governor Cornwell does not look upon military occupation of the territory as martial law.

TO RAISE THE FUND

"I asked that federal troops function thru civil authorities," he said. "County authorities failed to cooperate thoroughly in enforcing the law. You have seen enough of the mountainous characters of the district, to realize that it is impossible for a limited body of a state constabulary to prevent lawlessness."

David Fowler, of the United Mine Workers and the real leader of this strike, which threatened for a time to develop into one of the bloodiest of minor-operator wars, said Saturday night an agreement would be certain, wherein international headquarters is to raise a war fund of $1,000,000 to throw into this district.

Fowler gave a demonstration Saturday of the methods used in checking attempts of the Williamson coal operators association to send strike-breakers into the region. Twelve men who had been recruited in Cincinnati, were deposited at the station Saturday fairly between representatives of the operators and Fowler and his supporters. The factions buttonholed the arrivals. Arguments were poured into the bewildered men from both sides. In the end they yielded to Fowler and were put aboard a train that carried them into union fields. While the rival ballroom crowds were "working" on the recruits, a squad of prying tough boys looked on. The soldiers offered no interference, but obviously were ready to step in if violence occurred.

"You see," commented Fowler when the victory had been won, "that show how square Colonel Hall and his men are. We did nothing illegal in convincing the men they had no right to step in a fight against the striking miners. The soldiers recognized that fact."

Twenty-six more recruits, were on the train. They went on to another camp but Fowler said they would be handled the same way when they did "debarb."

Thus, the fight went on Saturday. For a few hours Friday night, it appeared that the always to be expected spark had been struck. Fire broke out in the county jail and as soldiers and citizens rushed to the place, the thought uppermost was that at last a jail delivery had been attempted and a clash was to come. It developed that one of the prisoners had accidentally set fire to a blanket.

Lima Life Underwriters, at their annual meeting held at the Elks Home Saturday, outlined a program to be followed the coming year and elected new officers. L. C. Faurot was named president of the organization; Albert Stolzenbach, first vice president; C. D. Ginter, second vice president and Seward P. Folsom, third vice president. P. R. Marshall was made secretary and treasurer.

Stock of Hoir to English Throne
Takes First Honors.

CALGARY, Alta. — Shropshire sheep owned by the Prince of Wales, arriving in the nick of time stepped from freight cars into the show pen and won the champion and reserve champion first and second prizes at the Calgary livestock exhibition.

The animals, fresh from England, were in charge of W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Prince's new ranch in southern Alberta. They consisted of five yearling ewes, seven ewe lambs and one stock ram. They are from the Duke of Westminster's flock, the most famous in England.

Aldford, 7, the arm that captured first prize and championship, was one of a pen of three that took first honors at the Royal Exhibition in England, regarded as the greatest live-stock show in the world. The Earl of Minto, who owns a ranch adjoining that of his royal highness, captured first with his yearling Oxford ram. With the Prince of Wales' sheep came twenty-one Shorthorn cows and heifers, four bulls and two calves. They are from King George's herds.

Prince Edward intends to sell any of his animals that western Canadian breeders desire to purchase. His show how square Colonel Hall and his men are. We did nothing illegal in convincing the men they had no right to step in a fight against the striking miners. The soldiers recognized that fact."

ON THE WRONG SIDE.
C. N. Milbourne, 627 S. West-st, was fined $1 and costs by Judge Jackson in criminal court Saturday when he was arraigned to answer to a charge of driving a motorcycle on the left side of Main-st. He was arrested Friday noon by Officer Goebel.

Supposing, that beginning tomorrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a furore the public would make. News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients. "All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements."

Then we would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this greatest age in the world's history.

What geni are they that have crowded the last fifty years with so much of advantage to humankind? They are legion in number, but not least among them is advertising.

Advertising is the NEWS of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world and all working for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best there is in everything and telling the world about it.

Read advertising. Keep abreast of today. Advertising furnishes you with facts and opportunities that you would otherwise never know.

WHEN NEWSPRINT FALLS IN PRICE TO PRE-WAR LEVELS OR NEAR THEM, SUBSCRIPTION RATES OF THE DAILY NEWS WILL ALSO FALL. BUT OUR ADVERTISING RATE WILL BE GOVERNED ONLY BY OUR CIRCULATION AND WILL INCREASE AS OUR CIRCULATION INCREASES.

THOUSANDS GREET MRS. M'SWINEY

Solemn Crowd Welcomes Mayor's Widow to U. S.

SINN FEIN BANNERS FLY

Soon Hides Herself Away From Throng at Hotel.

NEW YORK — Mrs. Muriel Mac Swiney spent her first evening in America hidden away from the thousands who welcomed her, visiting with only her relatives and those friends in her suite at the St. Regis hotel Saturday night.

No formal arrangements for the entertainment, for the widow of the lord mayor of Cork and her friends declared she probably would not appear publicly before she tells her story of Ireland's fight for independence to the unofficial committee of 100 investigating conditions in the land.

ILL DURING VOYAGE

Mrs. MacSwiney suffered severely following her husband's death. She was ill during the entire voyage. At the White Star liner Celtic and spent most of her time in her cabin. Passengers aboard the boat said she appeared only once in the dining saloon.

Almost immediately after her arrival at the hotel, following her triumphal procession from the pier, Mrs. MacSwiney went to her room, riding with a few friends. It was said she was still feeling slightly ill from the effects of her voyage. She returned from the trip about the city shortly after dark, lined quietly in her suite and then talked with her friends and relatives before retiring.

GREETED BY BANNERS

A solemn crowd silently welcomed Mrs. MacSwiney and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary MacSwiney, when they stepped from the liner at the dock in the morning. She was the first person down the gang plank and a grateful smile flitted into her worn, tired face as she looked upon hundreds of silent persons as they stood holding Sinn Fein banners.

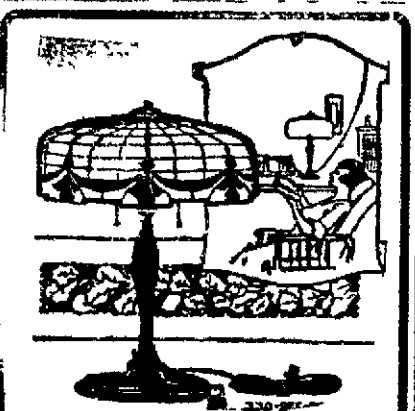

A limousine decorated in the colors of the "Irish colors" was waiting for her. All along the line of march motorcycle patrolmen who guarded the limousine, had trouble holding back the hundreds of persons who pushed to the street for a glimpse of the widow of the man who started himself for the Irish cause. Hundreds of marchers carrying Sinn Fein banners joined in the procession.

As the party passed St. Patrick's cathedral, all bowed their heads and Mrs. MacSwiney bowed her head. At the Union Club just beyond where a miniature riot was staged. Thanksgiving because of exhibition of a British flag, many in the crowd hissed and pointed their Sinn Fein emblems at some members who gathered at the windows.

Shortly after her arrival at the hotel, Mrs. MacSwiney issued a brief statement, telling how grateful she was for the "Irish" situation or anything connected with it.

Altho no definite arrangements have been made as yet, it was said Mrs. MacSwiney will probably stay in New York until Tuesday night when she will leave for Washington, appearing before the unofficial commission on Wednesday.

THE PUBLIC HAS BEEN WAITING FOR AN EVENT LIKE THIS--

After a week of genuine, old-fashioned value-giving in celebration of our 39th Anniversary, we beg to announce to our patrons, friends and prospective customers in Lima and vicinity that the astonishingly low prices quoted on our Shoes during last week will not only be maintained, but in hundreds of instances, lowered, from now on until the first of the year. In order to emphasize this unprecedented decision to sacrifice on our entire stock for the period of one month, we will start next Tuesday morning the greatest shoe sale ever before launched in the shoe world.

Gooding's Holiday Reconstruction Sale

$100,000.00 worth of shoes for men, women and children (19,500 pairs in all) will be thrown on the market to be absolutely sold out at below present market prices and in many cases at 1-3 to 1-2 of their original selling price.

Full Announcement of Prices and Reductions in Tuesday Morning's Paper

The public has been waiting for an event like this, judging from the crowds that attended our Anniversary Sale last week. The tide has turned—war conditions are over—now the Reconstruction Period. Prices soared sky high, but the high point has been passed and prices are now starting down. No sale ever came at a better time, for the public can buy Xmas requirements at reduced prices. Waiting is not our policy. The tide has turned; we've turned our business policy with it!

FORGERS REAPING A HARVEST

Police Have Collection of Bogus Paper Cashed Here

In a warning issued to merchants Saturday by Police Sergeant Frank Eberle, they are advised to exercise more precaution in cashing checks of strangers. Several forgers have been busy here in the past several weeks, and many merchants have fallen victims to their novel schemes of having bogus checks recognized. "Merchants are cashing stranger's checks too freely," Sergeant Eberle said, as he exhibited a handful of worthless checks that have recently been turned over to the police department by victimized merchants.

Clever methods are being used by the crooks to outwit business men. It is known by police that a number of checks were passed by a woman and man, who worked together.

Last Saturday this pair succeeded in passing bogus checks at the Buener Meat Market, the Cunningham drug store and at the Elite confectionery.

Each of the checks were supposed to be from the Harrington McMahon Co., issued on Lima Trust Co. checks. They were made out to J. C. McDonald and indorsed by that name. No such firm is known in Lima. The firm's name is stamped on the checks, and a protectograph is used to make the checks look more real.

Another pair of crooks are said to have passed a number of worthless checks in the same style, supposed to be issued by a Jackman and Sons Coal Co. No such firm is known in Lima.

At the Standard grocery, corner Market and Central-sts., such a check was presented after a man had purchased a bushel of apples. After the check had been cashed he left store, saying he would return soon for the apples. He did not return.

TAX QUESTION NIGHTMARE

Davis' "Mansion Strike" is Silly Season Story

BY MARCUS
COLUMBUS — In the scheme of things, financial relief for taxing districts of Ohio is not nearly so vital as financial relief for taxpayers, a fact which is being impressed these days on the incoming lawmakers as they sound their constituents preparatory for their first flight to this center to take up their duties. Much noise has been made in the world in recent years about "financial relief," the same being a method of collecting more taxes and had it not been for Executive insistence the propaganda would have worked so well that scarce a shred of the Smith one per cent tax law would be left. The legislative sport on which there never was a closed season was tearing at that old bark of the farm and home owners. Quail went on the songbird list, protected from their enemies but never taxpayers. There was a certain poetic justice in this, too, because the taxpayers, to a considerable degree, were indifferent to their own interests. Money was free and the impost was not missed. But it's different now. Substantial farmers, even wealthy landowners, are going into the banks to borrow money to pay the interest on what they borrowed last June. And if economic conditions do not improve, they will borrow next June to pay the interest on their previous June and December loans and to pay the next installment of interest and taxes.

In numberless cases throughout Ohio credit will be denied seekers of it or the taxes will simply be allowed to lapse and lands will be sold for taxes. There never was such a period of borrowing to pay taxes and the distressing thing to the credit seekers is that the conditions are not due to poor crops, but to inability to sell the products piled high in their storehouses and barns. There has been detected in the face of these circumstances a diminishing of favor for the scheme to tear up what is left of the Smith law to let tax rates mount higher and higher. Even assemblymen who two years ago thought that the old law was a joke are evincing a fondness for it. Their constituents are at the time when they have to pinch dollars and even pennies and they have less patience with augmented levies. If the Smith law is to go, real estate owners will catch it both ways, what with the increase in valuation thru re-appraisal recently ordered to bring the country districts up to the cities in assessment. "The distress in paying taxes will not be confined to the country, however, for the December collections will bear down heavily in the cities as a lot of lawmakers will learn. The plea, "Give us relief" can be sung by taxpayers as well as by spenders.

Correction of the constitutional and statutory provisions of the Initiative and Referendum provisions of the Ohio system of popular government so that it shall be able to function properly under the large voting power brought by equal suffrage is a problem before the incoming general assembly. Part of the necessary correction, as in the case of the municipal I and R may be made simply by change in the law and the remainder must be made by change in the constitution. The general assembly can only submit it to popular vote. It is well settled that the amendment would carry and that by an enormous majority, if it were submitted. The past experience of Ohio warrants this statement. People of Ohio have liked the system but they have seldom invoked the referendum. Only once in seven years has a measure been carried to the people, aside from laws and issues that had to do with the liquor traffic. It cannot be expected to be regarded as a popular instrument if placed out of reach of all save the very powerful. And yet it is easily anticipated — judging again from the record — that there will be determined opposition to correction. Two years ago this developed when an attempt was made to double the percentages. Now the same end has been attained by doubling the vote.

Patronage lists, unfortunately, rather than problems of government are the quest of leaders of the groups that will be dominant in the new administration when they come to Columbus. This has come to be so well established as to be taken for granted and it is really remarkable the small amount of attention that has been given to important questions. There is evidence that the proposed reorganization is promoted entirely for patronage purposes without regard to the efficiency of the service. For once the fractional interests behind the legislation have others doing their bidding and doing it satisfactorily. The charts on state government by Don C. Sowers, the Akron investigator, and his fellow-workers have charmed the curious who have learned all they know about state government from the squares and circles. But no such things trouble a visitor from Montgomery-co, who came to us this week. "Say," said he, in his devilish way, "what departments have contracts to let?" Ordinary jobs troubled him not half so much as places with contracts to let. "Wonder what this shining beacon of political realties means? Every one in Dayton has three guesses to be forwarded to this tribune of the people."

One of the silly season stories which has been given wide circulation throughout Ohio is the report that Harry L. Davis will not occupy the executive mansion on East Broad Street here. The report had it that he was so poor that he could not afford to live in the mansion. Shuck! As they say in Ohio, whoever heard of Davis refusing anything? Unless we miss our guess he will be ready to step into that house the minute he can live there free. The new Governor is not one to decline the things that go with official station. He has never been known to do so in Cleveland. One suspects, though, that there was design in that story, the aforesaid design being that the general assembly should increase the appropriation for living expenses, now $5,000 a year. If that isn't enough, it is not inconceivable that the amount will be increased, but it would hardly be necessary for the new Executive or any friends to proclaim a "mansion strike."

Discussions of the proposals that are coming up to lengthen terms of county officers by legislative enactment discloses that there are substantial partisan interests back of the scheme. The official lobbyists may be expected to be as thick as flies about the capitol and the incentives to action will be powerful in the last degree. There never was a time when so many members of the G. O. P. won elections as in the great landslide of 1920. In some counties the title which carried them in is so certain to ebb before another two years that there has come a desire to fix these partisans in office until 1924. Still it remains doubtful as to whether any serious attempt will be made to force action if the general assembly proves unwilling. No one knows what a driftwood body will do and the present one contains a startling percentage of members who were surprised when they found themselves elected and do not really know why they are coming.

Agitating a number of cities is the question of screens in near-beer saloons. The accusation is made that behind the screen there is a "silver lining" to prohibition, the same being real beer, either "home brew" or imported—from Cincinnati, let us say—and that the whiskey vendors practice their arts under the protection of the vision obscures. It may be true but the question is whether the removal of screens would help very materially. There are 156 recognized bootleggers in Columbus and few of them work in connection with soft drink establishments. It is also true that 256 cases of liquor—count 'em, 256—were brought into the city recently while a former high police officer was in charge, so it is related, of one section of the transportation crew. Tinkering with near-beer places will not remedy such things as these. Incidentally, however, the agitation, along with the Crabbe act, sent prices up recently and bonded liquor is now $20 a quart. All of which means larger profits to the bootleggers.

If ever there was a set of women and men who puffed and snorted it was the Democrats here when some one discussed the proposition of a dying Democracy. The party expects to come back, partly in 1921, more in 1922, still more in 1923 and completely in 1924. The deficit from the campaign is in the way of being wiped out and plans are afoot to make the organization the best in the history of the state. In Akron, the rubber town fellows said, they got 200 ten dollar memberships in their club election night. Democrats dead? The very suggestion produced a riot when Len Koplin told that tale. The executive committee expects to get 10,000 members in Ohio at ten each and that is an ambitious program.

Reformers never are satisfied. Take Akron for example. It was not content until it had one of those charters that other cities of its size or smaller sported. It took several elections to bring it, but the advocates were insistent. Now look at it! Forty thousand have left the town and the rest want to repeal the charter. The cause of complaint is the franchise given by Business Manager W. J. Laub to a traction company and after he had ridden in to power on a campaign of the people against the corporations. The new franchise is a hummer, gives the traction seven per cent of everything. Laub may go out on his head on as big a majority as he went in with, even if the voters have to tinker the machinery to do it, like burning down the building to fire a janitor. And for all the reform a virtuous editor says the town is run by a lot of peanut politicians.

Dr. Allen W. Freeman, the gentleman from Virginia who has been a big factor in making over Ohio's health system on modern lines, received a letter a few days ago which he declares is a testimonial to the work of himself and his associates. It was from "Grouch Sam, the Boe." Sam complained, did he, that the sanitary conditions were bad at a county home where he stopped. He found the bed-bugs numerous, the toilet facilities bad and the wash rooms dirty as pig pens and the towels "like coal bin mops." Dr. Freeman referred the letter to the district health commissioner for investigation and said, "when the hoboes begin complaining about the flop houses, sanitary education must be getting pretty well distributed."

Stated for an early return to Ohio is Hon. John F. Kramer, of Mansfield, now prohibition commissioner. The dope is that they have picked out a gent from Maine, where they have been violating the liquor laws for 57 years, as commissioner in the place of John F. Kramer. It may be said that Kramer has done everything possible to enforce the law and has earned a hatred of every bootlegger. Nor is he popular in the cities with members of his own party who think he might have "listened to reason." Whether his successor will go so is quite another matter. No run runner speaks well of John nor of his Ohio Commissioner, J. H. Shearer. Activities of these two cost the party a lot of votes and they were a burden because of their policies. Among others the run runners want a "change." What will it bring them? If illicit selling of liquor becomes more open and free, bet upon it that some one is in on it in high quarters. Some day, however, that it will bring the price down and contend that the high prices of contraband goods has been due to "Hon. John" Kramer's efforts.

GHOSTS OF NOTED MOUND BUILDERS, LONG DEAD, STALKING ABOUT

GREENBURG, Pa. — The famous mound-builders' mound in South Huntingdon-tp has suddenly taken on life and the eight-hundred years ago, according to the best informed scientists, lay down to their eternal sleep, have just a suddenly started stalking out at night, disturbing the tranquility of the country neighborhood and at times throwing country swains and their cooling sweethearts into paroxysms of fright.

So strong has become the belief that all is not well within the famous mound, which is 300 feet long and 12 feet high, that Dave Kelly, the high constable and custodian of the peace in and about Gratztown, a mile from the mound, has asked to investigate.

Dave does not take any stock in ghosts, spirits or such things. He is of a more practical turn of mind. His long experience as high constable has taught him better. Accordingly, he has set bear traps about the mound. He thinks the traps will be more apt to catch the spooks than any other method. Dave takes the view that all ghosts, except those from the town he works for, have two legs at least, and these traps are pretty likely to produce results if the "hants" stick around long enough.

FRIGHTEN TRAVELERS
First news of the stalking of the ghosts of the ancient mound builders—for that is what the night prowlers are believed to be—came on Halloween night. Because of the night, little attention was paid to the frightened traveler who rushed breathlessly into Gratztown with his announcement. But when on Armistice night Cy Brown and Sue Smith, happened to be passing there and saw the same eight-foot apparition, but with a slightly smaller specimen alongside, "Cy" simply stepped on "er"—that is, on the gas, for he owns an auto, and made haste for the Armistice ball. "Cy" admits he wasn't scared. But those who saw him start home with Sue that night claim he took a five-mile detour to get home.

The appearance of the ghosts has caused such speculation and some excitement, especially among the younger people.

and his assistant, from the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh, invaded the quietness of the mound builders' tomb and removed from it one of the eight-foot specimens. Whether this has angered the ancient denizens of the mound is a question the populace hereabouts is unable to determine so far.

There are a number hereabouts who scoff at the idea of ghosts, but it has been observed that the scoffers give the mound while they cache their berth at night.

One other explanation has been made by a local man, which tends to be in line with the suspicious of Constable Dave Kelly. This theory is that some daring whiskey runners have capitalized the ghost business with a view of keeping people away from the mound while they cache their whiskey hoards within the tomb. There are in this vicinity several of the largest distilleries in the country, and since prohibition went into effect large amounts of whiskey have been stolen from the warehouses and never accounted for.

Dave Kelly's bear traps may catch a ghost which will be found to be a red-blooded whiskey runner.

Mullenhour Bros.

Cylinder Regrinding and General Machine Shop

The only shop of its kind in Lima or within 75 miles. Equipped completely with all new modern machinery and supply stock of

Pistons, Piston Rings, Wrist Pins, Bushings Carried in Standard and Oversizes for all cars

We absolutely guarantee all our work and materials. If we can't do your work and do it right, we'll tell you so, at once.

Prompt work and service are features of this shop. Many auto owners, who have had to wait weeks, even months, while their engine work was being done in some other city, can now have everything done here promptly.

One of the features of our stock is the Dow Metal piston, 30% lighter than aluminum and has the tensile strength of mild steel. It has no abrasive action like aluminum. We have them here in Ford sizes. They'll actually outwear your Ford. One test showed a wear of only .001 in 20,000 miles. We can also supply Dow Metal pistons for most any make of car. They give satisfaction.

A Word About the Management

The machine shop is directly under the supervision of R. D. Mullenhour, for 18 years an expert automotive supervisor.

Outside work will be under the direction of F. W. Mullenhour.

TWO DIVORCES IN
DAY'S RECORDDecrees for Almeda A. Drew and
Charles E. Loar.

SATURDAY GRIND OF COURT

Loar Gives Up Wife to Her Former Husband

Painting a word picture of the sickness and death of their young daughter, Verna, 13 months, failed to stir the emotions of Almeda A. Drew and Henry Drew, when their suit for divorce was on trial in common pleas court Saturday.

Parents refused to be reconciled, each declaring they wished to be divorced. Judge Kilinger granted the decree to Mrs. Drew on the grounds of extreme cruelty and gave her the custody of their child, Virgil, 3. His dower was barred in lot 7049 in Wheeler Place addition, Perrytp, which she claimed her father had given her.

She was awarded the household goods and furniture and he must pay $5 a week toward supporting the child until the boy is 16, as well as all court costs.

The couple was married on January 24, 1916. Mrs. Drew testified her husband refused to buy her and her three young daughters by a former marriage, proper clothing.

CLAIMS HE WAS MOODY

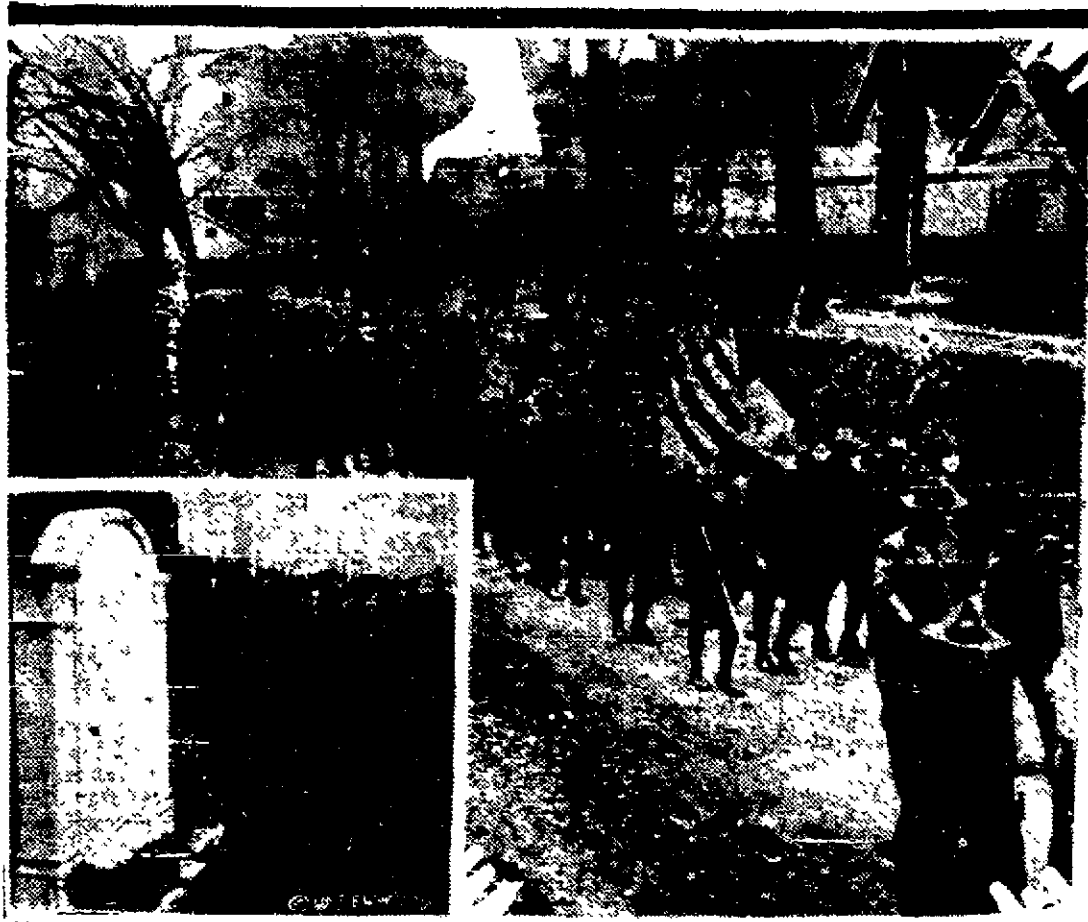

"He would take moody spells, sit around the house and not talk to me," she testified. "Then he would become angry from no cause. I would wake up nights and find him standing beside my bed. He could give no reason. At night he would walk thru the house, couldn't sleep, because he would keep me awake by annoying and pinching me," she told the court.

She declared he refused to wash and bathe himself and frequently went to bed with his clothes on.

She told of Drew ordering her children by a former marriage away from their home and refusing them any breakfast. They are 10, 8, and 6 years old. While their stepfather and mother contested their marital rights in court, the little girls enjoyed themselves, cavorting about the court house lobby and visiting the various offices.

Mrs. Drew also charged that her husband took certain liberties with these little girls and then threatened to kill them and her if they revealed his alleged acts. On the witness stand Drew denied this and said such charges were absurd, shocking and untrue. Mrs. Drew also charged he committed a statutory offense in their own home in 1917 with a woman named Viola McNeill. Drew, in his testimony, declared his wife locked him out of her room. He said he was a poor laborer and that it took every cent he would earn to provide for his wife and the five children in their home.

He described events of the day on which their baby died, saying he was called at 2:30 o'clock and that the little one died at 6:30. Drew said he paid the funeral expenses, letting payments on a suit of clothes he had bought, lapse to do so.

Asked by Attorney W. P. Anderson, if he would not say his wife was a woman of Christian character, Drew laughed and replied that once she called him an unholly name, but only once.

"We both attend the same church and the Rev. S. L. Wingert is our pastor," Drew told the court. The Rev. Mr. Wingert is in charge of the Church of God, St. Johns-ave.

The climax in testimony came when one of Mrs. Drew's little girls was placed on the witness stand and told how consistently their mother tried to bring them up in the right way. "We say our prayers every night and go to Sunday school," the little girl related.

Several thousand Boy Scouts recently made their first pilgrimage to the grave of their former leader, the late Theodore Roosevelt, who is buried in Young's cemetery, Oyster Bay, L. I. Each boy placed a small bunch of flowers on the grave of the former honorary president of the Scout organization. Many famous men accompanied the Scouts to the grave.

CLAIMED BY FIRST HUSBAND
Charles E. Loar was given a divorce from Elsie May Loar, who did not contest the case. It developed that Mrs. Loar's former husband had appeared in Lima and claimed her, after her marriage to Loar. His name is said to be Hoover. Loar and his wife were married in Newport, Ky., in April, 1909. She left him on July 1, 1914.

The case of Faye Jandelett against Eugene Jandelett was heard and taken under advisement. Jandelett did not appear to contest the case. She charged desertion. They were married in Monroe, Mich., in December 1917.

JUDGMENT CONFESSED
Confession of judgment in the sum of $370.80 was made in common pleas court Saturday by E. Finley Castle in favor of Glen H. Alexander.

BANDITS ABANDON

ECHO OF GROVE CITY JOB

Old Caps, Road Maps and Bottle of Ether in Car

With the coming in an alley here late Friday morning of a mud covered Marmon touring car belonging to E. J. Goodman, 254 Bryden-rd, Columbus, police of that city believe it is the auto that figured in the spectacular daylight robbery at Grove City Friday morning.

Seven dirty caps, believed by Columbus police to be those worn by the robbers when they held up the bank, were found in the car, with a bottle of ether and several marked road maps telling directions out of Columbus and Cleveland.

EXTRA LICENSE NUMBER

An extra set of license plates was found in the rear of the car, No. 5585, which were on the car when it was stolen from a downtown street in Columbus.

The license plates on the car when it was found here were No. 16005, and advices received by The Lima News from the State automobile Department at Columbus indicate that they were taken from a car belonging to S. L. Wright, West Jefferson, O.

A man giving his name as Snider recognized the car at police headquarters Saturday as the one which swept past him at high rate of speed about four o'clock Friday afternoon, headed toward Lima on the Lincoln highway from Beavertown.

He said he could not tell the exact number of persons in the machine, but that it was loaded.

All of the caps bore the trade marks of Columbus stores.

TWO TIRED, HUNGRY
TO WORK, MAN PLEADS

Frank Cozart, 40, residence nowhere, dirty and unkempt, told Justice Ernest M. Botkin he hadn't eaten anything for so long he did not know how food would taste and that he was too tired to work, when taken into court Saturday on a vagrancy charge.

Cozart apparently was too ill to talk. Judge Botkin gave him an hour to get out of town when he pleaded not guilty to the charge he went.

"NO CAUSE OF ACTION"
VERDICT IN DAMAGE SUIT

The jury which on Friday heard the trial of L. D. Clevenger and B. F. Holmes against the Ohio Electric railway company, in common pleas court, returned a verdict, Friday night, of no cause of action.

As partners under the name of the Buckeye New and Second Hand store, Clevenger and Holmes were carrying milk to Lima for the White Mountain Dairy company. Their truck was struck at Yoder by an Ohio Electric car and they claimed they were forced to suspend business. They sued for $497.49.

EVOLUTION PLAYS PART IN THEATRICAL LIFE

Traditions, Unwritten Laws and Royal Edicts of Stage Not Heeded Today—Leveling Process Represents Most Conspicuous Change in Work

Better Class of Drama Produced Now than Under "Star System"—News of New Plays Now Appearing in Theaters of New York

BY FREDERICK F. SCHROEDER
NEW YORK.—There is evolution in theatrical life the same as nature. The internal development is constantly undergoing changes. To some it is a great mystery to trace these subtle changes that upset time-worn practices of a profession dating back to Aristophanes. The stage used to have its traditions, its unwritten laws, royal edicts handed down from the days of Shakespeare and Moliere. Who cares for them now? It used to have its own nomenclature, its own professional class distinction, according to which every play was cast. Who knows anything about it now? Traditions have been cast to the winds and actors are selected according to type—that is, the actor must look like the character he is to play, so his skill is a secondary consideration.

The most conspicuous change that has taken place in the past decade in the American theatre is the leveling process that has been applied to establish a democratic system of equality in the profession of acting. This has been a feature incident to the centralized system of management.

Fifties or sixties years ago the so-called "star system" was at its height. People were expected to disregard the play and center their interest on the "star." They were educated to worship a name. The result was, a lot of bad plays and much indifferent acting.

Book-plays were the special vogue, plays made from best sellers, many of them without a dramatic incident or a crucial moment. By and by people tired of that sort of entertainment. They tired of the stars, who were never designed to be stars except in name. Most of them were young and inexperienced, with nothing but a certain charm of personality. A day came for taking an inventory of the stock on hand, and there was a demand for real plays with a punch.

So far as possible the bill of specifications has been filled. A goodly number of a better class of dramas were put on. The difficulty has by no means been overcome. The indifferent play is as prevalent as ever. It takes a little army of playwrights to provide upward of 200 plays a season for the New York stage, and there must necessarily be a certain number of bad ones.

But there has been a perceptible improvement in the acting, and many a play of no particular excellence has been indebted for its success to the admirable interpretation which was given it. And the secret is this:

There has been a general leveling of the ranks. Many an actor or actress who strutted a short hour upon the stage as a "star" found his occupation gone and had to adapt himself to the Procrustean bed which had been provided. Only this season your correspondent has been impressed by the acting of two once distinguished individuals—distinguished as gauged by the size of the electric letters that blazoned their names above the sidewalks—who would have scorned a subordinate role a few years ago.

Just as once actors balked at going into the "movies", and then overcame their reluctance by the tempting offers that were made them, actors of considerable pretension are nowadays submerged in a general cast, consoling for the loss of their outward luster by the very considerable pay offered them and the assurance of steady employment. And not a few former stars are glad to get an engagement in the ranks, having found their natural level, like water. As a result there has been much better acting. A lot of these good actors may have been mere satellites instead of fixed stars, but they are a tower of strength to a cast.

The painstaking school of acting of the past will probably never return. It went out with the last great actors like Booth and Davenport. Acting in their time was considered an art—and it was. That it is no longer is proved by the fact that some of the best modern acting to be seen is done by children, even in some of the more exacting juvenile roles. The way some of these precocious youngsters get away with a part is enough to make even the best actors take notice. The reason is that acting has been stripped of its arabesques and ornate grandeur. To play successfully in the comedies of Sheridan, Moliere, Congreve and Shakespeare demands a radically different degree of perfection in all the graces of art from that of an ultra modern comedy by George Cohan and a few of those I happen to know would accomplish the task with any credit to themselves. It isn't so very long ago that one of the best-known players all but disgraced himself in a part in a Moliere play in which he was for the first time in his life compelled to wear buckled shoes, a white wig, knickerbockers and a plumed hat. He was never in the picture a minute. Given the same character in modern dress and setting, he would have made a hit by his lounging airs and negligent manner. In his flaring satin coat and silk vest he had no manner; yet he was playing in a comedy of manners. The modern play demands that an actor shall be natural merely, and like as near himself as possible—and that's far from being an art. So personally still counts for a great deal, but with the prevalent favor for natural plays the public gets considerable drab material, plays that depress by their intrinsic barrenness when they should exalt and exhilarate.

The outstanding feature of the performance of "Daddy Dimples" in the play of that name is Macllyn Arbutknot, but logically the play is erratic in spite of the fine theme of the rich bachelor who herds a flock of homeless children, brings them up to a certain point and then loses his fortune so that he has to become a bookkeeper to foster his own existence. No better actor could have been chosen for the part than Arbutknot. He has something of the genuine heartiness of a Dickensian character, but whoever was responsible for the working out of the details has overdone a good thing. He spreads the syrup on too thick. It is a pity to see so many fine character touches marred by an intrusion of distracting details.

The solution which insures the happy ending is extraordinarily satisfactory. It is late in the play that we learn of the sinister cousin who has fought our hero for the possession of his inherited fortune for sixteen years and finally gets the decision. Their enmity dates back to the time when the injured wife of the sinister cousin fled from her husband's home and died under the eye of Dimples, leaving a girl baby to be brought up in ignorance of her parentage. This child has reached her sixteenth year when her father wins the suit and discovers who she is. He claims her and a year elapses during which things have gone from bad to worse with the old man. He now couples a cold flat in a tenement house. Christmas eve he comes again, and from the children's home of refuge have come his words to be near their former benefactor as of yore. The old cheer is there but nothing in the way of substantial to keep it warm. The only member of the little circle missing is his pet, the daughter of the old man's dead sweetheart, last heard from traveling with her rich father in France. But fancy for yourself the happy solution when the door is silently opened and there she stands on the threshold in deep black. Her father has died. His fortune is now hers. We know from the attachment between the two that the old man's days will be gladdened.

"Rollo's Wild Oats" now playing at the Punch and Judy theatre, is a dramatization of Daisy Ashford's well-known book of that name. It is credited with a London engagement. The leading male part of Bernard Clark is taken by an English actor, Harold Anstruther, who played it abroad, while the role of Ethel Montague is taken by Marie Goff. "The Broken Wing" deals with the adventures of an American aviator who has come down in Mexican territory and is destined to win the affection of a Mexican beauty. Late in the week

The new attractions are "Young Visitors" at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre and the "Broken Wing" at the Forty-eighth Street. The first, needless to say is a dramatization of Daisy Ashford's well-known book of that name. It is credited with a London engagement. The leading male part of Bernard Clark is taken by an English actor, Harold Anstruther, who played it abroad, while the role of Ethel Montague is taken by Marie Goff. "The Broken Wing" deals with the adventures of an American aviator who has come down in Mexican territory and is destined to win the affection of a Mexican beauty. Late in the week

John Keller will begin a Shakespearean season at the Manhattan Opera House in "Shylock," "Hamlet," "Macbeth" and "Julius Caesar."

John Drinkwater, who presented Abraham Lincoln in his simple theme with such marked success, has disposed of his next play to a New York manager. It is entitled "Oliver Cromwell" and will be produced in London shortly before it is offered in New York. He has another play ready for the stage, "Mary, Queen of Scots," that favorite subject of a number of distinguished writers, chief of them Schiller. At the same time comes the announcement that another play on a topic much used, including a version by Schiller, "Joan of Arc," has been completed by Amelia Rives, but in this instance the play will be founded on Mark Twain's history. The author is coming to New York to confer with William Faversham about its future. Meanwhile "Kissing Time" at the Astor is approaching its end, and Col. Savage will take over the theatre Monday evening to bring Miss Madge Kennedy back to the stage in a new play by Dodson Mitchell, entitled "Corporal." And report has it that Raymond Hitchcock is interested in a scheme to re-establish the Chinese theatre in Pell Street, which used to be one of the side attractions of New York before it became fashionable to go slumming in night-seeing automobiles.

SIGMA PRESENTS 'BODY AND SOUL'

Dainty Alice Lake is Strong in Leading Role

HURLBUT STORY PICTURIZED

"Someone in the House" Comes Latter Part of Week

AN unusual program will be offered at the Sigma theatre for the entire week, starting today with "Body and Soul" in which dainty Miss Alice Lake has the leading role. "Body and Soul" is a picture of the famous stage play by William Hurlbut, and in her interpretation of the American girl studying art in Paris, Miss Lake has one of the strongest and most appealing roles of her picture career. Her role is a departure from her usual girlish-gingham parts and decidedly different from anything she has heretofore done.

The scenes are laid in the Latin quarter of Paris, where life throbs hot, youth dreams high and vice is everywhere in evidence. It is a place where nearly everything may happen and where nearly everything does; the only corner in the world where such a drama as "Body and Soul" could be enacted.

An added attraction will be the Sunshine Comedy "Mary's Lobster," and the world's news depicted in motion thru the latest Fox News reel.

"SOMEONE IN THE HOUSE"

Beginning Wednesday, the Sigma's program will include the special feature "Someone in the House." This is a mystery drama of unusual power, dealing with high society, a jewel theft and a gentlemanly crook.

Jim Burke, known as "The Dancer" seeks to gain possession of the famous Brent diamonds by making love to the daughter of his friends, Miss Molly, and just when his well-laid plans are about to materialize, he finds his scheme completely overturned by an event which he had always sneered at—the love of a good woman.

Edmund Lowe as Burke, gives to the difficult part all the dash and debonair character which one expects from a society crook.

Miss Viola Vale, as the daughter of wealth who never loses her faith in the pseudo gentleman, is extremely realistic. William J. Irvine is excellent as the society club-man and man about town, and Edward Connelly is splendid as the pawnbroker. Others in this all-star cast include Lawrence Grant, Clara Lee, Howard Crampton, Edward Johnson and Thomas McGuire.

"THE BOOMERANG"

"The Boomerang," a special seven-reel production, opens a two-day engagement at the Rialto theatre.

This photoplay is said to be full of intense love interest and scenes of great magnitude. The biggest motion picture ever assembled in pictures making was used in the huge strike scene in the second reel and the production carries two of America's greatest actors in its splendid cast.

Henry B. Walthall has the most important role, while Melbourne MacDowell, the distinguished tragedian of the legitimate stage, is prominent cast. Miss Nina Byron, one of the most beautiful and talented young movie stars of the day plays opposite Mr. Walthall, while the emotional part is ably interpreted by Miss Helen Jerome Eddy.

"THE ROYAL"

After the performance at the Royal on Sunday this theatre will close for one week, during which time it will be completely remodeled and re-decorated and ready to be opened to the public. When it is reopened to the public it will present one of the finest little theatres in the city. Its standard of pictures will also be raised, Manager Malle's states.

The class of program now being seen at the Royal will in the future, be transferred to the Dreamland theatre. One of the first pictures to be released at the Royal under the new regime will be "Blind Husbands" which opens there next Sunday.

VODVIL STARS AT ORPHEUM

The complete change of vaudeville program at the Orpheum at the matinee this afternoon, for the first half of the week, brings to Lima one of the most celebrated attractions yet to play the Market-street theatre this season—the Bower Trio of syncretized song, dance and instrumental music. The Bower Trio will be presented at the Orpheum, however, for today and tonight only, as the act is available for presentation here only because of breaking the journey from the Broadway theatre at Columbus, to the million-dollar Rivoli, of Toledo. The Bower Trio is expected to score a tremendous hit.

Starting Monday matinee, the headliners for the remainder of the first half of the week—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—will be the Beatrice Morrelli Sextette—six dainty misses who are expected to win instant success. The Beatrice Morrelli Sextette comes to the Orpheum direct from New York City. It was because of the length of journey to Lima that it was necessary to offer the Bower Trio as the headliners for today only.

The other five acts for the first half of the week will be the same today as the other five days of the engagement. Conway and Fields, in their avalanche of eccentric comic-relief, should score high in favor. Lowey and Raynore will be seen in "A Laugh Tonic," a skit of incessant merriment. Roth and Slater offer a divertissement of humor, which they term "In the Wrong Neighborhood." Mlle. Thiera is the world's foremost woman ventriloquist. Frank and Rae are "Dance Comiques," and late stars of Broadway musical comedies.

"The Girl in the Dark" will be the headliner for the last half of the week, starting at the matinee Thursday. This is a mammoth big novelty, entirely different from anything heretofore seen at the Orpheum. Among the other five big-time hits completing the last-half program will be Miller and Capman, comedians; Wier and Grest, "The Yank and the Guinea;" McCormack and Winchell, "Just for a laugh;" and the Great Lamplins, in an oddity of thrills.

"SO LONG LETTY" LYRIC FEATURE

Oliver Morosco Production is a "Season's Best"

PROBLEMS OF NEWLYWEDS

Eugene O'Brien in "The Wonderful Chance"

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

THE Lyric has a splendid array of features for the coming week, starting off with the well-known stage success "So Long Letty" which Oliver Morosco produced not long ago and which as a motion picture, is one of the best comedy dramas of the season.

"So Long Letty" presents the problems to two newly married couples, who present a combination of vastly different personalities. One husband, a gay bird, has married a girl who doesn't care a bit for pretty clothes and good times, but can enjoy herself thoroughly merely by cooking her husband's meals and keeping house for him, whereas:

The other husband is a nice little home-loving man, who has slipped the gold band on the finger of a girl who is strong for cabarets and a festive life and who can't boil water without ruffling it.

This difference in dispositions soon brings dissatisfaction on all sides, the two husbands and wives striving to conceal their real feelings. A scheme is finally proposed, in which each wife is to change husbands for a week and just what happens under this arrangement provides sparkling entertainment.

"So Long Letty" boasts of an excellent cast, including T. Roy Barnes, Walter Heirs, Grace Darmond, and Colleen Moore. There are a number of wiser scenes, wherein many of the swimming beauties of Los Angeles are seen disporting themselves in what they call bathing suits.

"THE WONDERFUL CHANCE"
The popularity of Eugene O'Brien grows apace with each succeeding production, and it is expected that his new Selznick picture, "The Wonderful Chance," which opens at the Lyric theatre on Thursday, will de-

BECKER'S JAZZ BUDDIES, LYRIC

An extra added attraction will be seen at the Lyric theatre today when Johnnie Becker's Jazz Buddies present their much talked of novelty orchestra of nine pieces. The acrobatic drumming and trapping of Earl Shellenberger is nothing short of marvelous, according to advance notices, and he never fails to elicit rounds of applause.

Becker, himself a composer of many jazz hits, was formerly director at Rector's in New York City until that famous establishment was closed, and he will introduce his biggest number "The Jazz Band Director" every performance here today. New York critics have given to Becker the credit of originating this style of directing, which, of course, he did "My Horse Town is a Horse Town." Eddie Cantor's Great Success will be one of their numbers.

Sigma Theatre To Have Symphony Orchestra

A new and permanent feature, to be inaugurated at the Sigma theatre today, is an eight-piece symphony orchestra, under the personal direction of Mrs. B. L. Flinn.

Manager Deardourff has announced that the orchestra will be a feature of the Sigma program each afternoon and evening during the week. A program of classical and popular music will be rendered at each performance, and special overtures will be given, but shows. Earl Morga, organ solo, will accompany the orchestra.

This is only the first of many new improvements which will be added to the Sigma in the near future, it is announced. Others in the form of a door-man in livery will be utilized within a short time, making of the Sigma theatre, Lima's most unique photoplay house, one of the finest entertainment centers in northwestern Ohio.

CRANES CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING
William H. Crane, the veteran actor, and Mrs. Crane, who are now making their home in Los Angeles, celebrated their fifty years of marital bliss with a dinner party at the Hollywood hotel recently. This is at least one event that belies the popular belief that the marriages of professional people aren't of the lasting variety.

COMEDY BILL AT THE REGENT

Mabel Normand Presents New Funny Capers

"WHAT HAPPENED TO ROSA"

"In the Heart of a Fool" For Latter Half of Week

THE REGENT'S program contains a double-comedy bill for today and the first three days of this week. Mabel Normand, whose funny capers and facial contortions have won her the title of the screen's best comedienne, will be featured today in "What Happened to Rosa." The story, you remember, ran some time ago in the Saturday Evening Post. Pearl Curran wrote it.

"What Happened to Rosa" is the tale of a little working girl whose life is just one grind after another. She lives a perfectly hum-drum existence until one day she is invited to a masquerade party, and then she began to step out. Miss Normand plays the role of Rosa as no one else in filmdom could do it and is still blessed with her usual amount of pep and personality.

The other half of the bill today is a new Torchy comedy, said to be a corker. So if you feel like laughing a bit today, the Regent's probably the best place to get started.

"IN THE HEART OF A FOOL"

"In the Heart of a Fool," coming to the Regent the last of this week averages a tragedy every thousand feet. And despite the tragedies, it is not a melo-drama; in fact, it is quite the opposite. Dealing with the complex problem of marriage, it stands out as one of the most powerful dramas of the year. The production is seven reels long, has an unusually strong cast, including James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson and Mary Thurman. William Allen White wrote it and Allan Dwan produced it.

Miss Thurman was originally a bathing beauty in Mack Sennett comedies. Later she had important roles in Paramount pictures and is now a leading lady for Allan Dwan. "In the Heart of a Fool" is one of the most elaborate and dramatic productions of the year. It starts at Regent on Wednesday.

"NURSE MARJORIE"

A wholly delightful and pleasing play is "Nurse Marjorie," in which Mary Miles Minter appears as the star, coming to the Regent theatre today and tomorrow. The combination of the star and the picture is a particularly fortunate one, and in a dainty nurse's uniform, Miss Minter is more bewitching and prettier than ever. She plays the part of a daughter of an aristocratic family who turns to useful work, to the conformation of her family and friends. At the hospital she is placed in charge of a young member of Parliament, and a love affair quickly develops. The supporting cast includes Frankie Lee, Arthur Hoyt, Frank Leigh and Clyde Phillips.

MOVIES GIVE DRAMATISTS GREAT OPPORTUNITIES, SAYS NOTED ONE

NEW YORK — "The movie field offers unlimited possibilities to dramatists." That is the belief and suggestion of Henry Arthur Jones, noted English playwright and dramatist, who has just reached the U. S. Jones is most interested at the moment in the forthcoming production here by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation of a stage play and a photoplay which he brought with him, all typed out in book form and, as he says, "not needing a single crossing of a 'U'."

First Turn to Screen Work With seventy produced plays to his credit, including among the more notable, "The Liars," "The Silver King," "The Hypocrites," "Mrs. Dane's Defense" and "Cock of the Walk," Jones now is turning his attention seriously for the moment—and for the moment only to the cinema field. He brought the play which first will be done for the stage and later for the screen, and will go into the studios and assist in the preliminary preparation for the work to be done upon it. He is confident the story will make its mark as a picture, saying only "It is somewhat spectacular, but filled with human interest."

"The motion picture industry," he says, "is only in its babyhood. It has a most ductile and facile technique; a boundless comprehension of events; an almost diabolical power of suggestion and inspiration and an equally great power of vivid, startling contrast. It has an infinite variety of action and vivid, free-dom of movement. In all these respects the film offers to dramatists lavish opportunities which are denied by the spoken stage. It also has a greater command and a truer presentation of landscape than the drama. It may offer a refuge to the imaginative dramatist, now almost banished from our stage."

Imagination's Real Chance Jones said that reckoning from Shakespeare downward, imagination had been practically shut out of the speaking stage "with its personalities and its dictionary of slang."

"The film welcomes and invites romance and imagination," he said. "True, these two factors will be denied speech, but how rarely have they been allowed to make 'banal' heard on the regular stage."

He does not believe, however, that the film play ever will supercede the spoken drama.

"Only words are immortal," he says. "A play has no permanent value or influence unless it adds to the winning approved success in the theater. It also takes its place in the country's literature."

It is the "volume, variety and impetus of its action" (the film play) that is, the essence of drama—in its swift, vivid, multiple transformation, its starting command of contrast, its power of concentration upon values, its minute, its capacity for suggestion and flashing suggestion, its ability to pass the motion picture play can pass the stage work.

Wool For Limousine Ladies; Silk Hose For Workers

The silk stocking, for years the aristocrat of the hosiery family, is now being worn more by the working girl than by any other class of women.

The woolen sock, knitted whole-sale by grandmas in the old days, for warmth and economical reasons, finds favor with the women of leisure.

After spending an afternoon in the downtown district, and watching women on their Christmas shopping-tours or at their work, it was determined that four out of every five clerks and office workers wear the silken foot covering. A small percentage of the working girls wear woolen hose; very few, be it said, and cotton.

It is the lady who steps from her limousine in front of the store who wears the warm woolen stockings. Woolen hose is usually worn with the sport or brogan oxford.

Folk attribute the change of station of the one exclusive silk hose and the formerly common woolen stockings to the fickleness of fashion.

That's not the reason, according to the girl who works. The silk stocking is real economy, she declares.

Woolen stockings can only be worn with sport shoes. That would necessitate the purchase of more hose for dress wear. The silk stocking can be worn in the home, on the street, at work and at social functions.

You can wear the silk ones with slippers, oxfords and shoes.

But that the workers prefer silken hose and limousine ladies prefer wool is not to be denied.

LADY ASTOR SCOLDS WOMEN FOR LACK OF LOYALTY

"Tries to do Something to Benefit Womankind Only to be Met by Distressing Apathy"—Should Adopt Continuity of Styles Like Men

LONDON — Lady Astor, who has a frank way of revealing her innermost thought and opinions almost equal to that of the much-discussed and not a little maligned Lady Asquith, is reading a few sermons to her own sex.

Unlike the ex-Premier's wife, Lady Astor seems able to be distressingly frank in her remarks and criticisms without rousing stormy criticism.

"If I had not been so busy at the time with a large family I would have been out demonstrating with the suffragettes."

"But now that we have achieved our purpose what do we find?"

"I, during most of my time, am engaged in trying to do something for the benefit of womankind, only to be met with the most depressing apathy on their part. They will do very little for themselves."

WOMEN LACK LOYALTY

"We can learn very much from men. One thing we can learn is loyalty. There is very little loyalty among women today. We do not find men refusing to vote for a man simply because he is a man, but we find that at every turn as regards women."

"I am glad that the days of the clinging, dependent woman are over. When I was a child I used to read about the heroines who fainted at the sight of a rat, and I wondered if when I grew up I would be like that. This is a testing time for women, but when I walk down Bond street and see the way they dress, I think they have been tested and failed."

"We should be more conservative, and imitate the men. We should learn continuity of dress from the men. What would we think if the men changed the length of their trousers every year?"

After which she declared she had made a rambling speech because her mind was muddled a little by being the only woman in the House of Commons.

CONSPIRACY ON STYLES
The Daily Chronicle jumps right into the fray with an editorial pronounced to be in support of the Lady M. E.

"The fact of the matter surely is that changes of fashions in women's dress have been due to a kind of conspiracy between the fashion-shops on the one hand and women on the other," says the Chronicle. "Both have had a common interest, on the part of one to sell as many dresses or hats as possible, on the part of the other, to secure as many as possible. The fashions served women, insofar as they were dependent upon men, as pretexts for exacting more dresses, hats and what-not than they could otherwise have plausibly claimed, in proportion as the women really become independent, the common bond between them and the inventor of new fashions will diminish, and that which has hitherto been only a tyranny exercised over men can be maintained only insofar as it remains a tyranny voluntarily submitted to by women."

Somewhat the issue doesn't seem to be particularly clarified by the Chronicle's very learned analysis after all.

PIONEER OF PUTNAM-CO DIES HERE AT HOSPITAL

Benjamin F. Crawford, 72, died at the City hospital Friday, after an illness of three weeks from a complication of diseases. He was born in Putnam-co and resided in Columbus Grove for many years.

After the death of his wife he came to Lima about ten years ago, residing with his daughters here, the only surviving one of whom is Mrs. Frank Davis. Mrs. Maud Crawford Light and Mrs. Lizzie Crawford Light, both deceased, were daughters.

Two sons survive. They are Frank S. Crawford, S. Dayton, N. Y., and Orda Crawford, Tomahawk, Wis. A sister and two brothers are also left. The body was removed to the Williams and Davis mortuary. Interment will be at Truro cemetery, near Columbus Grove, beside the grave of his wife. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SPIRIT OF YULETIDE IN AIR

Holiday Activity Among Club
Women—Students Returning Home for Christmas

Blum-Weixelbaum Wedding
Takes Place Monday—Charities Plan for Relief of Poor

CHRISTMAS is but a comparatively few days in the future and the spirit of preparation for the much-looked-for-forward-to affair at this season is upon in the minds of women of the social realm. With the return of the college and university students for the holiday vacations, there are to be innumerable affairs for their pleasure. The Yuletide season this year is expected to be an unusually brilliant one.

The stores are gay with their lighting and Christmas decorations, arranged with tempting articles which make most acceptable gifts. Everyone is attempting to be "practical" and this seems to be the general theme of the shoppers.

The philanthropic organizations of this city will bring cheer to many families and individuals, who have no one near and dear to bring tidings. The ringing of the bells of the Salvation Army lassies on prominent corners of the thoroughfares always bids one to give and Yuletide cheer will go into many homes; thru the efforts of the Associated charities of the city.

Both the Wayfarer and Stroller clubs are making extensively plans for dances during the holiday season and there will be revelry at the various clubs.

There will be a noticeable lull in social activities during the next few weeks and during the past week there were no large social affairs.

Monday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Weixelbaum, W. Spring-st., the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Elsie to Bernard Blum will take place with Rabbi Mayersberg, Dayton, officiating. Miss Selma Weixelbaum, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor and Theodore S. Blume, brother of the bridegroom will act as best man. Little Elsie Jane Prinze, niece of the bride is to be flower girl.

Following the ceremony a dinner will be served at the Lima club and Mr. Blum and his bride will leave for a trip to Chicago. After January 1st they will be at home at 708 W. Market-st.

CAPITAL BUD TO BE MUCH FETED

Miss Joyce Nebeker, daughter of Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. Frank Nebeker, is one of the charming debutantes of the season in Washington, D. C., and many social affairs have been arranged for her.

Mrs. R. O. Bigley, W. Market-st., welcomed the members of the Altruistic club at her home Friday afternoon. Sixteen members responded to roll call with current events. Mrs. Frank Butters read an interesting paper on "Suffrage."

The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Public Library. Each member is requested to bring one guest and Miss Lillie E. Stearns will speak.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kepner, 743 Ritchie-ave., announce the birthday of a daughter, born Thursday, December 2nd. They have named the little one, Mary Helen.

A meeting of the Floral Guild will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Public Library. Each member is requested to bring one guest and Miss Lillie E. Stearns will speak.

Mrs. Herbert Martin, N. Collett-st., will be hostess to the members of the Ideal club at her home Thursday afternoon.

A meeting of the Day Nursery Board of Managers will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Day Nursery. Every member is urged to attend.

Miss Ag. Kill was given a most delightful surprise when a number of friends gathered at the home of Hubert Youngster, Delphos. The affair was given honoring her birthday anniversary. Games and music were enjoyed and about eleven o'clock the guests were invited to the dining room, where a dainty luncheon was served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grothouse, Mrs. Wienker and daughter, Adella, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kill and family; Hubert Youngster and family, Marcela Youngster, Ida Falter, Catherine Reagan, Loretta Mueller, Agnes Kill, Otto Falter, Frank Rode, John Reagan, Carl Mueller, Mrs. Welken, Lawrence Kill and Othmer Welken.

ENGLISH WOMAN IS MAKING NAME IN ART CIRCLES

Marie Apel.
Miss Apel is a little English sculptress who has won many honors in New York with her arrival since her arrival there several years ago.

Mrs. William Doorley extended the hospitality of her home to the members of the S. E. club at her home, Thursday evening. Three tables of players enjoyed game of progressive euchre and at the close of the game Miss Edith Brown and Miss Thelma Brown held high score, while Mrs. Edmund Brown and Miss Clara Brown held low. A business session and social time followed.

Mrs. J. S. Neuman 1018 W. Elm-st., will be hostess to the Past Matron's society of the O. E. S. at her home Monday evening.

Mrs. Howard Chew, Nye-st., is entertaining as her guest, Mrs. C. C. Lewis, Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. C. A. Haag, Lafayette, Ind.

The Blue Bird Hill club will hold a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Caroline Sommers, 645 S. Main-st.

Miss Florence Price, McBeth-apt., W. North-st., was hostess on Friday evening with a miscellaneous show-er at her home for the pleasure of Miss Elsie Weixelbaum, bride-elect of Bernard Blum. Needlework and music were enjoyed during the evening and later a buffet luncheon was served. Miss Weixelbaum received many attractive gifts.

Guests of the evening included: Miss Elizabeth Newson, Miss Beat Sharples, Mrs. Paul Thompson, Miss Veronica McCray, Miss Noelle Bigley, Miss Gertrude Spantzel, Miss Betty Laughlin, Miss Katharine Greenstade, Miss Selma Weixelbaum, Miss Clara Leach, Miss Mildred Catt, Miss Helen Hunter, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Mrs. Seward Folsom, Mrs. Donald McHaffey, Miss Elsie Cunningham and Miss Mildred Jones.

An interesting meeting of the Players Dramatic club was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emmet R. Cullen, Jr., Holland-apt., W. Market-st. The program committee including Mrs. Frank Bell, Mrs. T. R. Schoonover and Berda Ewing presented plans for the program for the winter. Three plays will be three one act plays given at the next three meetings. "Athena of Russia" to be presented at the home of Berda Ewing, N. Pierce-st., "Cavaliere" and "Two Crooks and a Lady" will be the other two. Mrs. Harry Gayler was the only guest, and she assisted the hostess in the serving of a delicious luncheon.

A meeting of the Needlecraft club was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Blair, Marion-ct. The afternoon was spent in the packing of a Christmas box to be sent to the War orphans which the club has been supporting for the last three years. Later a delicious luncheon was served.

The next meeting of the club will be the Christmas party to be held with Mrs. Harry Dunn with Mrs. Harry Longworth as assistant hostess.

Mrs. Eva Doty entertained the members of the J. D. club with a 12 o'clock dinner at her home Thursday. The home was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums. Guests were Mrs. Solomon, Mrs. Roberts and Miss Alkon.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Lillie Harper on December 14th.

Exceptional Music Event at Memorial Hall Wednesday Evening Is Arranged

Myrna Sharlow, prima donna of the Chicago Opera company and Ernest Davis, leading tenor of the Boston Grand Opera company, will appear in a joint recital at the Memorial Hall, Wednesday evening. Granville English will be at the piano.

Miss Sharlow has established herself as one of the favorite Lyric sopranos of the Chicago Opera company. Her "Musetta" has become a classic of operatic circles—not only in opera but in concert has Miss Sharlow found a field for her work. She delights her audience by the beauty and charm of her singing.

Ernest Davis, a tenor of remarkable vocal gifts, has within the past few years firmly established himself among the really great singers of the day. He made his debut with the Society of American singers in a Chicago concert in 1915. Mr. Davis' success was instantaneous. He toured the country with the Boston Grand Opera company.

The seat sale will be held at the Memorial Hall Tuesday from 9 to 5 o'clock for the members and on Wed-

Irreproachable Lines

Have you ever admired a style of dress that was smart, daring, effective—but just a little difficult to wear?

The newest frocks now seem to demand such perfect lines, such smooth, unbroken contours, that many a woman hesitates about her ability to wear them.

But—if you will let us fit you in a Redfern Corset, you will no longer be afraid to risk any style—no matter how daring or how difficult.

Redfern
Corsets

—give your figure the lines which every woman wants. They express all that is distinctive, feminine and charming. But all they really do is to emphasize—very cleverly—all the attraction of your own lines. Which is the reason why one's figure is always so "individual" in a Redfern—not merely one of many, but marked by a beauty all its own.

The models are actually so comfortable and easy that you hardly realize it, except the improvement in your figure.

Price $5.00 to $25.00
Every One Guaranteed.

The Selection and Fitting

—of anything at once so intimate and so important as a corset—should be attended with the most thoughtful and conscientious of attention. Our fitting service is not to be excelled in scientific knowledge or in courteous interest.

Mrs. Merton Sealts, Mrs. George Metcher, Mrs. Miles Standish and Miss Margaret Wood entertained with an informal affair at Miss Wood's kindergarten Saturday afternoon honoring the twentieth birthday anniversary of Miss Wood and the fifth birthday of three of her little pupils, Merton Sealts, Jr., Shirley Standish and George Metcher. The parish house of the Christ Episcopal church in which the kindergarten is conducted was resplendent with miniature Christmas trees and Yuletide suggestions. Following an interesting afternoon spent with games and contests a delicious luncheon was served. On the long table were four large birthday cakes bearing dainty pink candles in rose bud holders.

Those enjoying the affair were: Josephine Harrison, Josephine Bayly, Gretchen Glover, Ruth Brunk, Madge Mitchell, Caroline Welly, Betty Jane Cox, Betty Schwartz, Martha Jackson, Elizabeth Ann Thomas, Betty White, William Buseri, Helen Altschul, Gwendoline King, Hilda Gamble, Anna Catherine Marshall, Peggy Johns, Helen Ann Gooding, Mary Johns, Janet Whitaker, Franklin Young, Oliver Smith, Bobby Galvin, Tommy Taylor, Billy Chew, Vail Bayly, Charles Eckert, Reile Holland, Jr., Frank Jervis, Billy Brunk, John Bentz, Bobby Strango, John Mitchell and the four honored guests.

Despite the rain on Saturday afternoon forty members of the Daughters of the American Revolution attended the meeting at the home of Mrs. Lush M. Butler, W. Spring-st., with Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Henry DeLeon, Jr., Mrs. Dickey and Miss Stella Pennell as hostesses.

The rooms were unusually attractive with Yuletide suggestions, red primroses and hollyhocks.

Miss Lutie E. Stearns gave a splendid talk on "The Basis of the Economy." She spoke of the Lavender club in California for the women about fifty years of age, which are the most popular of any organization along the coast. She told how some of the most brilliant works had been written by authors after attaining the age of fifty. She also pointed out the value of the present time to those of the days of our grandfathers. Her talk was an unusually appropriate one to be given before the chapter of the D. A. R.

Mrs. William Annet, Wood's and Mrs. Betty Price Wilson were the only guests. At 5 o'clock the hostesses served a delicious tea.

Miss Lutie E. Stearns, Milwaukee, Wis., who is spending several weeks in this city lecturing on "Food Economics" will speak at Bluffton College on Sunday and in the evening at the Methodist church in West Cairo. On Monday evening she will speak before the members of the Chautauque club at the home of Miss Nettie Snook, W. North-st. Tuesday at 11:45 o'clock she will talk at Lima Locomotive. In the afternoon she will be a guest at the meeting of the Elks club and at the home of Mrs. McKee, 131 W. North-st. Miss Stearns will spend Wednesday at New Bremen and St. Marys. In the evening she will lecture at a meeting of the Macabees and on Thursday will speak at the Chalmers company and the Ohio Steels at 12:15 o'clock.

Little Miss Bernadine Diedrich entertained charmingly in honor of her seventh birthday anniversary. Wednesday afternoon from three to five o'clock at her home 307 W. Plum-st., Wapakoneta. Games and music furnished entertainment during the afternoon, after which refreshments were served.

Those enjoying the affair were: Alice Eckenweiller, Mary Seifert, Lucile Neiter, Virginia Varner, Nell Rose Diedrich, Julia Brown, Marjorie Varner, Bobby Diedrich, Billy Brown, James Diedrich and the hostess, Bernadine Diedrich.

A meeting of the League of Women Voters will be held at the library on Friday at 2:30 o'clock. At this time Miss Lutie Stearns will speak, her subject being "A Woman's Idea of an Ideal Democracy." From childhood Miss Stearns has been interested in the woman question. There is a story that she made a suffrage speech when she was eleven years of age, her platform being the roof of the family wood shed. Every woman interested is urged to attend.

Miss Lutie E. Stearns, Milwaukee, Wis., spoke at the meeting of the N. E. O. C. club held at the home of Mrs. H. T. Bowersock, Nye-st., Friday evening. Following the inspiring talk the evening was spent socially and delicious refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Helen Longworth, Lakewood-ave.

The College Women's club will hold its annual all day sewing on Saturday. The meeting is called for 9 o'clock with Mrs. William Pennell, 1944 W. Market-st.

Mrs. Harry E. Goldsberry, 408 S. Chestnut-st., will be hostess to the members of the Jitsu Ten club at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Mrs. John Jones has gone to Col. E. J. Jones, Mrs. Vill.

Mrs. J. J. Klay, E. Kibby-st., entertained at her home Wednesday evening for the pleasure of Miss Sara Klay, E. Kibby-st., who left Thursday for Modesto, Cal., to make her future home. This affair was also given to announce the engagement of Miss Klay to Edward Edward, Denver, Colo. The Yuletide decorations were used throughout the home and in the dining room, where a delicious luncheon was served as an umbrella in the table and green was suspended above the table and filled with gifts. Centering the table was a miniature snow house and upon pulling the initials of the betrothed couple were revealed.

Guests included: Mrs. Walter A. S.berger, Mrs. Jones, Miss Mirtum Helping, Mrs. Clarence Miller, Misses Alma and Clara Zimmerman, Mrs. Morris Hare, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. A. Elles, Mrs. P. A. Welch, Miss Gledic Underwood, Miss Elizabeth Welch, Mrs. Coffey, Miss Berry, Miss Sellers, Miss Baxter, Miss Ruth Miller, Miss Lenore Hoyt, Miss Rowena Rousculp, Miss Hardin, Miss Ethel Miller, Mrs. Zinks, Mrs. Hadsell, Miss Davis, Miss Burnett, Miss Parker, Miss Lehman, Miss Josephine Lyons, Mrs. Myers, Mrs. F. Blizant, Miss Phil-Liss, Miss Miller, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Miss H. Brunk, Miss Dalzell, Mrs. Calkins and Mrs. Huilinger.

Mrs. Mathew McNamara was hostess to the members of the Triumphant Euchre club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Dimond held high score among the members and the guest prize was awarded to Mrs. W. H. Duffield.

Members included: Mrs. L. J. Hanley, Mrs. Charles Dimond, Mrs. J. O'Connor, Mrs. J. O. O'Connor, Mrs. A. H. Stolly, Mrs. D. F. O'Connor, Mrs. John Madigan, Mrs. Morris Foley, Mrs. J. W. Shanahan, Mrs. Walter Cooney, Mrs. R. M. Lane, Mrs. James Duffield and Mrs. P. S. Ireton. Guests were: Mrs. Phil Runiger, Mrs. G. W. Boyle, Mrs. John Kraus, Mrs. W. H. Duffield, Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Mrs. Rose Taubkin, Mrs. Clarence Stechschulte, Leppic Miss Mary Mulcahy, Mrs. T. Connelly, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Mrs. M. H. Lynch, Mrs. J. J. Malloy, Mrs. Jantelle, and Mrs. Margaret O'Connor.

In the evening Mrs. McNamara entertained with such Mrs. J. B. Graff received the prize, holding high score.

Guests included: Mrs. Phil Runiger, Mrs. John McNamara, Mrs. F. Finckh, Mrs. Harry O'Brien, Mrs. Mrs. Dan Dimond, Mrs. James Kelley, Mrs. E. Shanahan, Miss Neta Conway, Mrs. W. E. Joy, Mrs. M. HEAR THE NEW NINE-PIECE ORCHESTRA AT THE LYRIC TODAY

Louis H. Goodman, violinist-conductor, who will render the original score of the popular stage success "So Long Letty."

The Lyric theater, which has put forth every effort to please and entertain its patrons, and to give them the very best there is, offers a very pleasing surprise today in addition to a program which is of exceptional merit. Louis Goodman, formerly with the Grand Theatre, Columbus, and more recently connected with Grauman's million dollar theater in San Francisco has been secured to conduct the new Lyric Symphony Orchestra which will introduce itself today in "So Long Letty." It will interest every body to learn that the overture will consist of all the smashing melodies, selected at random from this great comedy-drama, and that the music throughout today will hold closely to the original score of this masterpiece and great stage success from the pen of Oliver Morosco. And in addition to "So Long Letty," which is recognized to be one of the most genuinely who'some and laughable comedies on the screen, Johnny Becker, with his "Jazz Buddies" will be in evidence with a program which it is said rocked the metropolis all up and down the Great White Way. Truly it will be a marvelous treat at the Lyric theater today. All this is in line with the Lyric's policy to give Lima people the very best of everything in the matter of entertainment there is to be had.

CHIROPRACTIC THE BETTER WAY TO HEAL

FOR YOUR CHILDREN

No greater service can be rendered to our country than protecting the health of our children, the men and women of tomorrow. In my practice among children I find many cases whose cause for their present illnesses and deformities dates back to childhood or birth when they sustained a fall or blow producing a spinal derangement of its segments. When your child is sick, weak and puny or undeveloped there is a cause and that cause is found to be pressure on the spinal nerves which control the life and action of the organs of the body. Spinal defects produce pressure on these nerves and obstruct the nerve forces going from the Brain to the Organs. Children who have weak and undeveloped bony structures will invariably have deformed spines which will increase with age. Fortunately my work has been very successful in those cases where the child has been placed under my care early in life. Are you, the parent of tomorrow's manhood and womanhood, going to neglect the opportunity of making and keeping your children healthy and well?

You can prevent such a disaster. AFFECTIONS of any of the following parts may be caused by nerves impinged at the point of a subluxated vertebrae:

- NECK
- THROAT
- HEART
- LUNGS
- LIVER
- STOMACH
- INTESTINES
- BLADDER
- RECTUM

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MOTHERS OF LIMA BY MISS LUTIE E. STEARNS

America places a great responsibility upon the mothers of its children, the physical, mental, and spiritual well being of the young depends very largely upon the knowledge and experience of the mother. Thousands of children die every year as a result of ignorance of mothers as to proper food and care. Many children die from being fed with raw milk. Nathan Straus, one of New York's greatest philanthropists, has supplied the poor children with milk for many years past. In the beginning he was prejudiced against pasteurized milk as are many people for lack of knowledge of process and results, of one group of fifty-one children who received raw milk only seventeen were well all summer. Mr. Straus then tried pasteurized milk and of a group of forty-one children, thirty-one kept well all summer. The wife of Mr. Straus has written a book, "Disease in Milk," which deals with raw milk and the necessity for pasteurization, this book is in the Lima public library and should be read by every thoughtful mother. Pasteurization was discovered by the great French chemist, pasteur, who found that by heating—not boiling—milk to a temperature of 145 degrees and holding it there for 30 minutes that the germs and bacilli sometimes found in milk that cause typhoid fever, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and septic sore throat, were destroyed. The tuberculin test given cows is a safeguard against tuberculosis alone, and there is no way known to science by which protection against other dangers may be given save thru pasteurization. Raw milk, therefore is never safe. Dr. Charles E. North, of New York, one of the greatest living authorities on milk, uses an equipment to pasteurize every particle of milk he gives his children from his own tuberculin tested cow. Prof. L. V. McCollum, professor of chemical hygiene in the school of hygiene and public health of Johns Hopkins University is authority for the statement that the food value and life giving elements in milk are not impaired by pasteurization, in addition to fats and protein milk contains milk-sugar for energy, heat and food for the brain; lime and phosphorus for the bones and teeth; potassium, to prevent the body fluids from turning acid; sodium, to neutralize the acid for the stomach and salt for the body; magnesium to condition the body; sulphur to purify the blood; iron, to make red blood; vitamins elements which promote growth. Milk suffers the handicap of its liquid form when it comes to recognition of its life and strength giving materials, milk is really "Liquid Meat," yet housewives will pay two and three times as much for a pound of surlon as for two pounds (a quart) of milk. The high cost of land, cows, feed, farm help, and all the other elements that enter into the production of milk have never been adequately recognized by the public. The modern city dealer, whose business it is to make milk healthful and safe, and to deliver it daily at your door, is confronted with no less than twenty-seven items of cost which must be paid before he can realize a penny of profit on his product. Profitteering in a human necessity is absolutely unjustifiable. Milk dealers and producers should always be granted a reasonable profit to enable them to continue in business, especially in times of economic stress, farmers, dealers, housewives, health officials, and city authorities should co-operate to secure a better understanding of the whole food situation to the end that the greatest quantity of the purest, sweetest, freshest, pasteurized milk may be sold at the lowest possible price.

"SO LONG LETTY", OLIVER MOROSCO'S GREAT STAGE SUCCESS AT THE LYRIC

These Bathing Beauties Fit More than Snuggly in Their Clothes

There have been bathing girls and then more bathing girls but the bathing girls are to be seen in "So Long Letty", Oliver Morosco's great stage success, which comes to the Lyric today.

There is a series of situations in "So Long Letty" that both tickle the funny bone and give opportunity for serious thought. A problem which many married couples encounter in everyday life is presented in a manner to leave a deep impression without creating a bad taste. It proves that at times it is perfectly simple to "carry on" provided the disgruntled individual is taught a good lesson.

Don't overlook the fact that The Lyric opens today with a brand new orchestra of 9 pieces with Adam Gilmer, formerly with Grawman's million dollar theater in San Francisco, as violinist and conductor. Also the Big "Jazz" Review as an added attraction. It's an all-star program today at the Lyric.

The Palace of Darkened Windows

BY MARY HASTINGS BRADLEY

Falconer made a gesture of extreme exasperation. To waste these precious moonlight moments in trifling debate was the very height of maddening utility.

"Oh, the chap's a feather-headed adventurer. What's the use of talking about him?" But that's aside the matter, I want—"

"You mustn't call him an adventurer!" The flash was far from hidden now. Her wide eyes blazed challenge at the disconcerted young man. "It's not fair. It's not true."

"Oh, I don't mean it in any—any financial sense," the harassed Falconer gave back. "But you can't expect me to take him seriously after his exploits in Cairo. He's flighty. He goes off like a rocket. He has illusions—but—"

"If you are going to slander him because of what he did for me—Arlee's voice was shaking.

"Oh, can't you see that's the key to his character?"

"Yes, I do see it." She sounded triumphant now. For a moment her eyes met his full of bright defiance; she hung fire, half scared, then blazed into her.

"For I was in that palace."

"What? What?" Falconer questioned in sheer vacancy of shock.

"I said—I was in that palace, Kerlessen's palace."

"What?" came from him again, but now in twenty different intonations, with absolute incredulity struggling for dominance.

Desperately she rushed on, her voice shaken, but passionate.

"I tell you it is so. He got me there by a trick, a call upon his sister. And he kept me by another trick, pretending a quarantine. I was trapped there. The messes, s and all the Alexandria story were Kerlessen's frauds. He wanted to marry me. I'd have been there to-night if it hadn't been for Billy Hill—that adventurer, as you call him."

It was impossible. It was unthinkable. Falconer stood staring down at this girl whose white, upturned face, so amazingly ethereal and childish, met his astonished gaze with unfaltering fixity, and from his lips dropped disjointed words and phrases, ejaculations of denial, of disbelief.

She swept them aside in her complete affirmation. It's all true—every bit.

"You—in that man's palace?" He was very pale, but into her white face there surged a sudden flood of color, crimsoning it from brow to throat.

"He didn't—hurt me," she stammered. "He was—quite mad—but he didn't—hurt me."

She heard Falconer's breath with a queer, whistling sound. He pushed back his hat and drew his hand over his forehead.

"It's—impossible," he persisted thickly, but there was bitter relief in his voice. "The blackguard—the filthy blackguard!"

"Don't, don't, please don't! I can't bear to think of him. He was trying to make me marry him. I told you he was quite mad."

Sharply Falconer pulled himself together, in the tense effort to meet this horrible astonishment like a man.

"And Hill got you out?"

"Yes. He got me out."

"But the Eversham—they don't know."

"No, no, I've told no one. I'm not going to tell anyone. No one knows of it but you and me—and Billy Hill."

"That's right." He drew another long breath, this time in sharp relief. The color was coming back to his face, splashing it unevenly.

"You mustn't tell anyone. You don't know how a beastly thing like that would spread. You mustn't let anyone have a hint. Not even my sister."

Arlee's eyes were in shadow. Her voice came slowly. "They would think so badly of me?"

"No—not of you—but it's the kind of thing, the impossible thing. A girl simply can't afford—"

"She can't afford to have even speculation against her," Arlee finished quietly, but a little pulse in her throat was beating away like mad.

As he knew he spoke the simple truth, but the taste of it was bitter as gall to her mouth. However she had humbled herself in secret self-communion, she had known no such shame as this. She felt cheapened, tarnished.

"It's beastly—but she can't," he jerkily agreed, but with evident relief at her sensible understanding. Perhaps he had remembered Billy's fearful prophecy of the conversation with which the adventure would supply her. "But of course nobody has a notion—"

"Not a notion. And I shan't give them any—not till I'm a white-haired old lady in Mechlin caps, and then I shall make up for lost time by boring all the world with my story of my romantic youth and the wild deeds done for me!" She laughed airily, pride high in her face, hiding her secret hurts.

"And Hill got you out," Falconer repeated, with a sudden twinge of jealous envy in his young voice.

"He's a lucky one."

"I'm the lucky one," Arlee flashed. "Think of the glorious luck for me that sent him to paint there, outside the palace, where a maid mistook him, and so gave a message. Why, it was a chance in a million, in ten million—and it happened!"

"Happened?" Falconer looked at her a minute before continuing. Then he asked quietly, "he told you that he just—happened—there?"

"Yes, he said by accident. He was painting—"

Now Falconer was an honest young man—and a gentleman. He liberally brushed away his rival's generous subterfuge. "He didn't paint," he told her. "He did that for an excuse—for a reason to stay outside the palace. No chance directed it."

"Why, how—how did he know?"

"He guessed. He was uneasy from the beginning—he made conjectures and set himself to verify them."

After a moment, "I never knew—that," said Arlee in a slow wonder. "Well, you know now," returned Falconer with a sense of grim justice to the man he had belittled.

In the silence the girl moved toward the steps. He made a gesture to stay her.

"You're not going—yet?"

"Yet," she echoed, faintly mocking. "It's hours."

"But—but we can never see this again," he urged, weakly, parring with himself.

"We won't forget it."

The words held a too-keen promise.

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

MR. CLAXTON ASKS TO CALL

"Yes, I wrote Kenneth Lawrence, I gave him my address," replied slowly to Mother's question. Some way I felt a reluctance to talk of Kenneth, even to her.

"Have you heard from him since you wrote?"

"Yes, just a short letter. He says that may come to Chicago before long. His superintendent is away and he is very busy."

"You will be glad to see him, I expect. Altho we did not know him very well." Mother had said "we" as was natural to her. In the old days my friends were her friends too. I was not allowed to receive anyone I did not know. Kenneth had been Claudia's cousin, and so welcomed. But neither Father nor Mother knew him well. But I felt that I did—not only as I remembered him, the good times we had together, but as I had held him in my thoughts ever since.

"I shall be glad to renew the acquaintance," I replied quietly. As I said it my heart beat more rapidly and I felt my face flush. I changed the conversation before Mother noticed.

In the days that followed I was often tempted to tell her how I felt about Kenneth Lawrence. But it seemed so foolish in me to have held him so in my thoughts all these years without knowing anything of his feeling for me—or what it would be when he saw me so changed—that I said nothing. He was almost a phantom lover—if such a term's "lover" could be used—a dream companion whom I had endowed with all that makes a man desirable. Perhaps he, too, had changed. I dismissed the thought almost as soon as it came. He had been a ranchman when I met him, was still one, while I and my life had altered in every particular. But not even to Mother would I confess my fear that he might be disappointed when he saw how different I was from the happy, carefree girl he had known. Not that I wasn't happy, especially now that I had Mother with me, but I had lost much of the elasticity, the girliness that had been mine in the long ago before Dad left us.

Mother had written Mr. Claxton a little note of thanks for her flowers and I also had told him how we had appreciated his thoughtfulness.

"I wish I might do more," he said with a glance that made me flush. "I am very glad for you, Miss Stewart. May I call on your mother and you some evening?"

"Of course you will, and he will photo for him. He looked at her in heart-beating uncertainty, and it seemed to him that all his future was waiting on that moment. Should he speak? Should he utter that which had been so near utterance when her astounding revelation had stopped him? After all, he knew nothing of her—but that she was lovely and willful and enchanting—with a capacity for risk—and a dire disregard of consequences. She was volatile, unstable, bewildering—so he thought stiffly as he looked at her, but he looked too long.

She was the very spirit of loveliness in the silver moon, her hair a crown of light, her eyes deep with shadowy wistfulness, her lips half sad, half tender. He felt the blood turn hot in his face, and took a quick step to bar the way.

"You must wait to hear what I was saying," he said, with a ring of new command.

She gave a sudden, startled look, and moved as if to pass him.

"You were saying nothing," she answered proudly.

"I was saying—everything," he gave back incoherently. "Oh, Arlee, do you think that story stops me? Don't you know—how much I want you?" and with a sudden violence he bent to clasp her in his arms.

like you. I can just see his face when he meets you. Mother. You look just what you are, you know, a born aristocrat and a real old dear who is as brave and courageous as they make them. I often lapsed into a sort of slang which at first had worried Mother. But she had become accustomed to it, and now only smiled.

"Why shouldn't I be courageous when I have such a daughter?" Mother was very frail. Her only complaint had been that she was unable to earn money and so make my burden lighter. But she never had recovered from the shock of Dad's death, never been at all strong since. For her to be confined to any sort of work was out of the question. At times I feared that even the keeping of our little home would be too much for her, and would insist upon either doing the heavy cleaning myself at night, or upon hiring it done—which as yet was a bit extravagant. A few days after he had asked if he might call, Frank Claxton came. Tomorrow—A Call

STEALING A SECRET OF STRONG MEN'S STRENGTH

Medical Science shows why Spinach and Carrots with organic iron often so surprisingly increase one's strength, vigor and endurance.

This big bully man lying on the floor OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED OF HIMSELF—but his blood is thin, pale and watery and he simply hadn't the strength and endurance to "go up against" the little fellow. When there is a great deficiency of iron in the blood you often have shortness of breath or palpitation of the heart and you may THINK YOU HAVE HEART TROUBLE.

The reason for this is simple: THE IRON IN YOUR BLOOD TAKES THE OXYGEN from your lungs and carries it to every part of your body. WITHOUT IRON YOUR BLOOD CARRIES NO OXYGEN and WITHOUT OXYGEN you may have shortness of breath; your heart flutters on some slight provocation and sometimes there is A FEELING OF SUFFOCATION OR DIZZINESS, the same as if someone shut off your breath, so no wonder you lose so much of your bodily vigor, strength and endurance.

Scientific experiments have proven conclusively that a secret of the strength, POWER AND ENDURANCE OF ALL STRONG MEN, is an abundance of iron in the blood. Without iron your blood loses its power to change food into living tissue and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good; you do not get the full strength out of it.

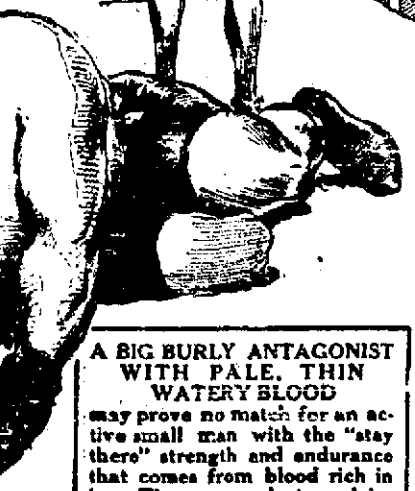

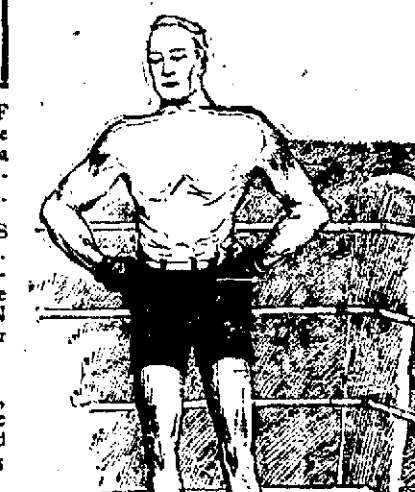

PRIZE FIGHTERS, WRESTLERS and ATHLETES have learned the value of plenty of plain, coarse foods in their training as such a diet helps supply their blood with iron.

THERE ARE 10,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD AND EACH ONE MUST HAVE IRON.

Nature puts plenty of iron in the husks of grains and the skins and seeds of vegetables and fruits to enrich your blood, but modern methods of cooking throw all these things away—hence the alarming increase in recent years in anemia—iron starvation of the blood, with all its attendant ills. When you get up feeling tired in the morning when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset, when you can't "hang out" your day's work without being all ragged out at night, when your digestion all goes wrong, or you have pale cheeks, back and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but consult your family physician and have him take a specimen of your blood and make a "blood-count" of your red blood corpuscles and test the iron-power of your blood yourself by adding plenty of spinach, carrots, baked apples or other iron-containing fruits and vegetables to your daily food and take organic iron with them for a while and see how your condition improves.

Thousands of people have surprisingly increased their strength, energy and endurance in two weeks time by this simple experiment. But in making this test be sure that the iron you take is organic iron—NOT METALLIC IRON or mineral iron which people usually take. Organic iron is the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, apples and apples, metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the mines and is not the iron in your blood. Organic iron may be had from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron.

Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in

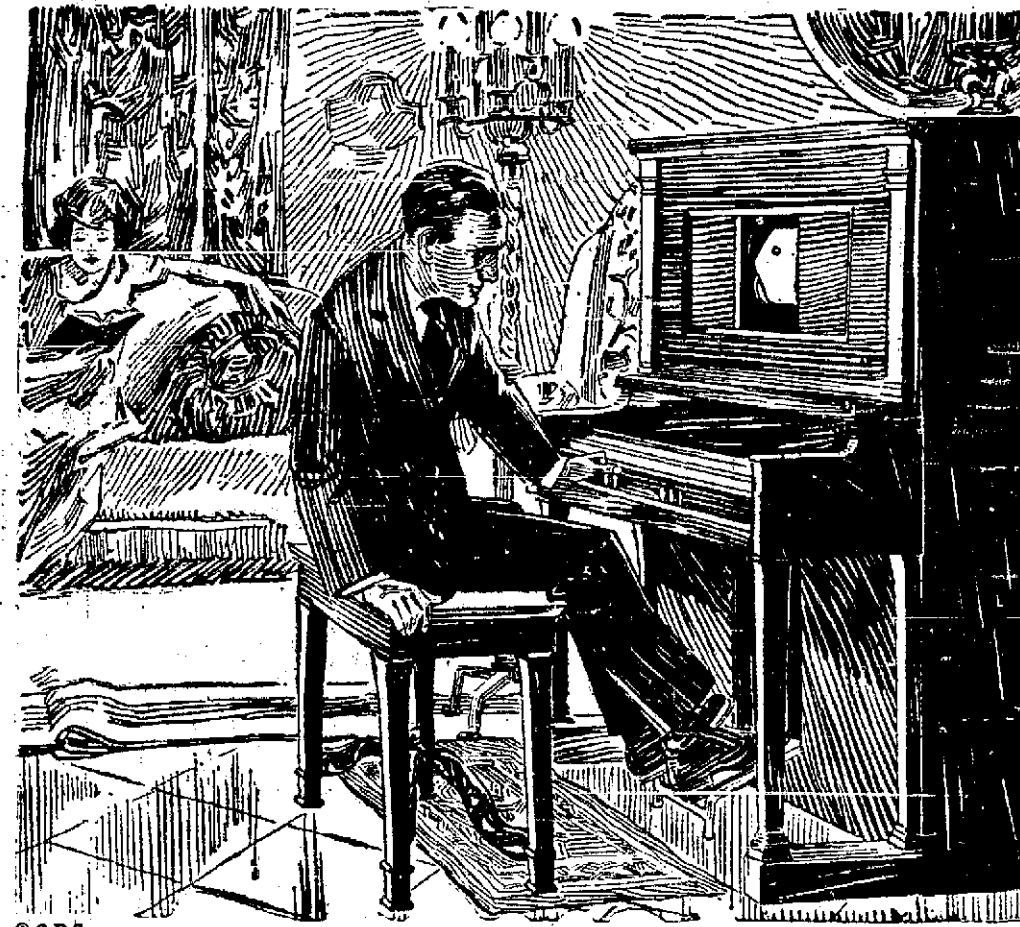

A BIG BURLY ANTAGONIST WITH PALE, THIN BLOOD. may prove no match for an active man with the "stay there" strength and endurance that comes from blood rich in iron. The reason why is explained in the accompanying article.

GULBRANSEN Player-Piano

Gulbransen "Pedal Touch" Is Easy, Exquisite

GULBRANSEN "Pedal Touch" is satisfyingly different from that of the ordinary player-piano. You will notice it before you have made a dozen pedal strokes. You will discover for the first time that there is such a thing as "pedal touch"—that player-pianos are quite different in this important quality.

"Pedal Touch" Like "Key Touch"

In a player-piano the pedals are the "keys" through which you produce expression. Therefore "Pedal Touch" is very important. It must be just right. Only in the Gulbransen is "pedal touch" really perfected.

If you have tried other player-pianos, you know some of them have a stiff "pedal touch," resisting too much, forcing you to push hard. Others have a mushy or trembly "pedal touch." Such pedals die away under your feet, keep you pedaling fast, and tremble annoyingly. The Gulbransen pedals feel firm, yet move easily. You do not have to push hard or pedal fast. You pedal the Gulbransen as the music requires, gently or firmly—always leisurely, relaxed, enjoying the music. The Gulbransen "pedal touch" is easy, responsive, natural—well—just exquisite.

If you know any Gulbransen owners you realize now why they play so well—with so much expression. They have the instrument which permits it—invites it. The dealers named below invite you to try the Gulbransen in any of their stores without obligation.

Nationally Priced

Gulbransen Player-Pianos, three models all play-able by hand or by foot, are sold at the same prices to everybody, everywhere in the United States, freight and war tax paid. Price, branded in the back of each instrument at the factory, now includes six instruction rolls (Martin Method) and our authoritative book on home entertaining and music study with the Gulbransen.

ANOTHER EXPERT O. K'S HYPO-COD

Indorsed by Physicians—A Medicine of Great Merit, He Says

PREFERABLE TO ALL OTHERS

In a statement reciting at length the splendid properties of each of the several elements composing Earle's Hypo-Cod, the eminent J. Henry Scruggs, Ph. G. P. D., confirms the conclusions arrived at and given in Professor Earle's statement published in this paper a few days ago.

"After carefully examining the preparation known to the public as Earle's Hypo-Cod and carefully watching the results of several cases in which it was used, it is my opinion that it is absolutely the best Cod Liver Oil preparation made."

"His great merit explains its great popularity. The formula is one that is endorsed by many of the leading physicians in the United States today." Your very truly, J. Henry Scruggs, Ph. G. P. D. (Graduate Atlanta College Physicians and Surgeons)

"I picked out Earle's Hypo-Cod for my own use," declared N. C. Clark, Ph. G. "because I know it was the best on the shelf. It restored my appetite and digestion, built me up and I began to sleep better nights. Today I feel as well as I ever did in my life. I had become weak, run-down and was looking mighty bad. I was so nervous I'd toss and roll half the night. My digestion and appetite was poor and anybody needing a tonic like that will make no mistake by insisting on Earle's Hypo-Cod. It is the one I recommend." continued Mr. Clark, Manager of Cunningham's Drug Store, 155 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

Watch for the statements of other authorities to be published in this paper, also the statements of local users. Drop in at the drug store tonight and get a bottle of the genuine in the famous orange colored carton, made by the Earle Chemical Co., which assures you of quality. Read formula on bottle.

Earle's Hypo-Cod is sold here now by all good druggists and the leading druggists in all nearby towns—Adv.

CONFESSES KILLING MAN IN NEW YORK HOTEL
NEW YORK—John Reidy, 24, of Milwaukee, Wis., confessed Saturday night, according to police here, that he killed Lee Vaughn Waters in a New York hotel the morning of November 3.
In the alleged confession, Reidy was said to have admitted he deserted the battleship Arizona on which he was a sailor, and was loafing about the city on election night when he encountered Waters, a wealthy young clubman. Waters, he told acting Inspector Coughlin, had whiskey and invited him to his hotel room to share it.
He attempted some familiarity, he said, and in the scuffle which followed, the sailor struck his room mate with a cane.
Police arrested Rowland Noat with Reidy and held him for investigation.

MUTT AND JEFF—OFFER LESS THAN IS ASKED—THAT'S JEFF'S SYSTEM—

By BUD FISHER

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By McMANUS

SHORT SHAVINGS

"How did you enjoy the Mexican trip?"

"I was disappointed," replied the tourist.

"How so?"

"It was announced that a person would rob our train but he sent an understudy."

"There are many stories told against Irishmen of ripe and full age, but not so many about them when they are young. Still, here is a proof they are Irishmen even before they are breeched:

It was a classroom in a village school in Ireland and the teacher was giving a lesson on salt."

"Now," she said at the conclusion of her rather long and inclusive lecture, "I want someone to give me a good definition of salt."

"Shure, teacher," said Micky, a bright, blue-eyed youngster. "It's the stuff which makes potatoes taste nasty when you boil them and don't put any in."

The members of the choir were practicing the well-known anthem, "As the Hart Pants After the Water Brooks."

The rendering of the open stages was apparently not quite to the satisfaction of the gentleman who wielded the baton.

He considered it necessary, therefore, to tender some advice to the tenors, and caused great consternation and not a little embarrassment among his little flocks by the following announcement:

"Gentlemen, your expression is simply splendid, but the time is very poor—really, your pants are far too long."

TRIBUTE PAID TO IRISH PEOPLE

Lady Greenwood Restows Splendid Compliment.

LONDON — While her husband, who went to Ireland as something of a pacifist, is being attacked today as a martinet, and is, himself, saying some sharp things frequently about the Irish, Lady Greenwood gives striking praise to the people of the Emerald Isle.

As the wife of the Secretary for Ireland, and before she knew that country as its "first lady," Lady Greenwood had wide opportunity to become acquainted with its people.

"Behind Ireland the tragic, apart from the agony of murder and anxiety that is so apparent, there is another country, a most delightful and beautiful land, in which live most charming people," she says.

"The social and moral characteristics of all but a few of its people are as fine and as strong as ever, the seen today thru the mists of strife and bloodshed.

"In all Ireland there is in social life a hospitality that is made delightful not only by the native courtesy and charm of a people, but by a generous warmth of welcome which is delightful to experience.

"Irish women are delightfully unaffected and frank. And these qualities, in combination with their sense of humor, make them the most agreeable social companions. They are earnest and intense about everything that interests them, such as music, painting, drama and sport.

"Dublin does not go to its national theatre only to be amused. It goes to be educated. Watch the audience there any night and you will see the earnestness of their attention, their desire for enlightenment.

"Sport appeals to the race in an equally intense manner.

"Politics, religion and party feeling are swept aside on the race-course and I have seen government officials and the military rubbing shoulders over the paddock rails with leaders of the Sinn Fein movement."

BLIND LAWYER OPENS OFFICES WITH HIS WIFE

ORDWAY, Colo.—"Brooks & Brooks" is the sign over a newly opened law office in this town.

H. H. Brooks and his wife, Harriet W. Brooks, were recently granted licenses by the State Supreme Court to practice law in Colorado. Brooks is blind and his wife, "studied" law while reading to him from law books.

The couple came here from Kansas City.

ASK TARIFF WALL AGAINST AMERICAN JAZZ MUSIC

LONDON—British music publishers complain that cheap and popular music is arriving here from America and that they are being outdone in their own market. They are trying to put a clause into the projected Anti-Dumping bill preventing the importation of foreign music, except under a prohibitive tariff.

The Gift Exquisite Cozy Things for Silk Lingerie Rosy Babies

Are you looking for something for that blessed baby? If you are, we have it.

First of all, there are the dear little silk slippers in white and pink and blue with the very daintiest embroidery on the toe and a strap across the instep just like mother's. Very inexpensive, too, at $1.50.

But if you want more of a gift, we would suggest a silk quilt or a little padded silk robe. These also come in pink and blue and white and are gently embroidered.

Perhaps you were thinking of some furniture for the nursery. We have wee beds and quaint cradles in wicker. Of course they are white enameled.

For babies who sleep out of doors and who go out of doors for an airing even on the coldest days, there are soft warm buntings and nice wooley blankets.

COMMERCIAL CLUB FOR SCHOOL

Commercial Students of Central High to Organize.

The commercial students of Central High school will organize a commercial club in the near future. A constitutional committee and a committee to perfect arrangements for the organization meeting have been appointed. The first meeting is expected to be held about the middle of December.

"The commercial club will be formed so that the commercial classes of the school can closer cooperate with the business men of the city," said J. T. Cotner, faculty supervisor of the club and head of the commercial department.

Meeting will be held regularly at which business men will address the members, telling them what they are to expect when they enter the business world. The commercial department teaches all the technique of the different studies, practical information from active business men will be invaluable to the students.

Social meeting will also be held, to which different prominent men will be invited, so that they can become acquainted with prospective employees. Any students classed as commercial students are eligible to membership.

The plan of officering this club will be different than the usual high school organization. There will be a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and also a board of directors, composed of fifteen or twenty members. This board will have an executive committee and other necessary committees.

The whole club will be modeled after the big business organizations of the country in a business way. That the club will be able to help the business men of the city as well as these men helping the club is an assured fact. The club will be willing at any time to consider any problems the business men shall have and it possible will help them.

This style of club is something distinctly new in the Lima high schools and is expected to be most practical.

J. T. Cotner, who will advise the club, is well known for his ability in commercial activities in the city. The commercial department under his leadership has become one of the best of its type in the state. Several hundred students are taking commercial subjects this year.

$700 COLLECTED FOR AID OF AGED AND INFIRM DEAF

James Swaney, Clyde Settlemyre, Jacob Place, Walter Sandy, George Myers and Albert Cooperide of Lima, with Messrs. Goetz, Koehn and Burke of Wapakoneta, last week collected more than $700 for the benefit of the aged and infirm deaf in the state home at Columbus.

These men met with splendid success in their work of solicitation and are very thankful for the kindness of the people of Lima and Wapakoneta in responding so generously to the appeal for aid for worthy persons. The solicitors named are J.A.F.

APPORTIONMENT MADE OF CITY FUNDS FOR 1921

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt and City Auditor D. J. Rupert Saturday announced the apportionment of $1,904,59 granted by the budget commission of Allen-co for operating expenses in the City of Lima in 1921.

The general fund is given $11,904.59 of the total, the health fund $7,990, safety fund $75,000, service fund $36,000, hospital fund $7,000, library fund $2,000, firemen pension, $500, police relief fund $1,500.

Under the law, the officials are required to certify the apportionment to the county budget commission.

BADGE FAD HITS YOUNG AMERICA

Campaign badges are kiddies' fad now. They'll swap two Hardings for a Cox, you bet.

"Aw, gee, I've got 40 Hardings and 19 Coolidges and."

The speaker was an ordinary Lima school boy. No, he is not interested in politics, or gathering statistics on electoral votes.

He's talking about political badges. These days the boy who has the biggest collection of badges is the envy of the neighborhood. They mean more than marbles, tops, kites, white rats or most anything.

While political experts were trying to figure out the votes for their favorite from the number of badges that were distributed, the school boy who isn't even interested politically, was eagerly adding to his collection.

Why ask for reasons? There is no reason except that kids is kids, and if badge-collecting is the craze—well, then they'll collect badges.

Why, they are fairly burdened down with badges these times. They've got 'em strung around the fringe of their caps and frescoed on their coat lapels.

Wherever you see a group of boys gathered you may know they are engaged in a trade of buttons. Examination of the pockets of any Lima boy will bring to light no agates or top springs or rabbit's feet. But badges—badges of every description.

And you couldn't get 'em to give one of them up for love or money. Of course, he'll trade, if you are on the square. He'll give you two Hardings for a Cox, or two Coolidges for a Davis, or something like that since the defeat of Cox, red buttons have dropped out of sight, making them valuable.

One little fellow owned a Cox button. His dad was an ardent democrat. The boy was approached for a swap.

"No, sir, I intend to keep this button, for four years from now it'll be just as good as now, for my dad said so," he replied.

In order to impress upon the other boy who coveted the red button said:

"Hurray for Harding, he's the man, Jim Cox died in the oyster can."

The boy of the red button hung his head. He still refused. Then the trader again broke into poetry:

"Jim Cox, he did climb a tree. The white house for to see. The limb broke, Cox got a fall. And didn't get to see the White House at all."

"So," said the little fellow, "but red buttons are in demand and I intend to keep mine." And he did.

If you want to put anything over with the kids, just offer them badges. They'll flock to you then. Even Sunday schools which recently have been offering attendance badges have noticed an increase in membership since they started the stunt.

They may not be eager for the text, but they sure do want the badge.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR ENAMELED IRON STREET INTERSECTION SIGNS

The board of control, composed of Mayor F. A. Burkhardt, Service Director Elmer McClain and Safety Director Fred Fisher Saturday awarded a contract to the Ingram-Richardson Sign Co., of Beaver Falls, Pa., for not more than 3,000 and not less than 2,400 street signs, at a cost of 55 cents each.

The signs are known as the Ing-Rich porcelain enamel iron sign and will be erected at street intersections. Service Director McClain stated Saturday that the work of putting up the signs will begin as soon as they are received and hurried to completion as quickly as possible.

YEAR OF SERVICE, SCOUTS' PLAN

Last 12 Months Devoted to Organization in Lima.

The year of 1931 will be made one of service, according to announcement Saturday by Lima council, Boy Scouts of America. The year just closing was one of organization, being the first 12 months of organized scouting in the city.

From a struggling condition of some months ago, several troops are now on their feet. Institutions and adults have aided. An enrollment of three scout-masters, several troop committeemen and 55 scouts is the total sum at the beginning of 1931.

Troops are now located at Lincoln school, with Prentiss Lawrence as scout-master; at Trinity M. E. church, with John T. Carter as scout-master; Whittier school, with Fred. Pierson; Christ church, Episcopal, parish house, W. C. Friedly; St. Paul's Lutheran church, H. F. Phikner; First Baptist church, Alex. MacDonell; Bethany Lutheran church, Turley Ruppert; First U. B. church, Elwood Thomas; St. Gerard's Catholic parish, J. A. Welsh.

Activities for the month of December include a meeting next Wednesday night in local headquarters, Holland building; December 11 and December 18, Fautrot park, afternoon.

Reading room at headquarters is being fitted up for use of the scouts.

Craig Contests Election of Gray and Thompson

WALLACE LANDS AS CLERK

Congressman Fess Needs Help—
Who'll Volunteer?

(BY J. W. FISHER)

The Allen-co Republican snarl is more aggravated than ever since Walter W. Craig, now serving a second term as county commissioner and elected in November for a third term, on Wednesday began action for a recount of the vote cast for commissioner candidates in precincts A, C, E, G, J, L, M and N of fourth ward Lima and precinct A of the sixth ward in this city.

In his appeal petition filed with Clerk of Courts Ira F. Clem and copies of which were served on A. J. Gray and John W. Thompson, Craig sets out in a bold and assertive manner that he and Thompson or he and Gray and not Thompson and Gray should have certificates of election for four-year terms.

In other words he has been robbed of his rights, as he verily believes, does Walter. For he it is known that Walter comes bobbing up with the statement that he received more than 100 votes in the county more than either Thompson or Gray, altho the official figures released by the board of deputy state supervisors of elections, following a canvass of the vote as reported on the tally sheets, showed that Thompson received 13,416, Gray 13,413 and Craig 13,410.

Here's how Walter says he was eulogized out of his just dues in the award of election certificates. He says, says he, that in the precincts named (labeled Exhibit A) numerous persons voted the straight Republican ticket, save and except for county commissioner, going over in to the Democratic column and "scratching for" James Mackenzie, after indicating by a cross right under the tail feathers of the G. O. P. eagle that otherwise they desired to vote a straight Republican ticket.

Walt goes on to explain, in a manner at least convincing to himself, that judges and clerks of election, either willfully or thru lack of understanding of the election laws, Craig doesn't say which, in such cases counted the ballot as a vote for Thompson and Gray, along with Mackenzie, whereas, in truth and in fact, the style of voting annulled a vote for any candidate on either the Democratic or Republican ticket for anyone save Mackenzie. That's how it was done, Walt asserts and he wants the thing righted, he does.

Altho he is now on his fourth year as a member of the board, he doesn't propose to be satisfied with another measly term of two years when there's four years within reach; all that is required to be done being to reach out and get it, as under a new law passed on February 11, 1920, the two candidates for commissioner receiving the highest number of votes in November are entitled to a double term, while the third must be content with two years.

That's how it stands and on December 15, under another law, in such cases made and provided, Justice of the Peace E. M. Botkin of Lima and Justice E. L. Durbin of Lafayette, in Court Reporter Walter Scott's office in the court house, will hear testimony and examine records for and against the contention, certifying the evidence within 30 days to common pleas court, where trial of the case will be heard in due time. Another law provides that the ballots cast in elections must be kept intact by the board of elections for 30 days following the election and then destroyed by burning, if no contests are filed.

Craig came under the wire with his petition the evening before the dawn of the 30th day and the ballots were still safe, third floor Holland block. They'll be needed in the "Justicial" inquiry. The thought occurs that (who knows) in other precincts of the county perhaps candidates other than Mackenzie on the Democratic ticket may have been favored by Republican voters, which would place

Thompson or Gray in the same position that Craig claims he was placed in Lima precincts and on which he bases his contention. If Thompson and Gray care a tinker's darn about holding onto the four-year terms, they'll get busy and demand a recount of all the ballots cast in the county. It might save their bacon, if Craig proves his contention.

It was quite natural to expect and the deduction proved wholly correct, that Colonel Albert Edward Gale and other fearful and tearful leaders of the G. O. P. in this particular ball-wick, after signally failing to persuade Craig to "lay off" starting something, hurried to explain in wheezy notes from the party "organ" that the Craig appeal would create no trouble in the party ranks and that the Republican "organization" had nothing to do with Craig's activities in endeavoring to pry Thompson or Gray loose from two years of salary as commissioner. Of course not, a blind man can easily see that the "organization" isn't back of Craig in this move. Neither was he back of the "organization" when Glen Wallace was endorsed for the position of Commissioner clerk.

And, also, if this incident can stir up any more trouble in the Republican party than has been all too apparent since the night of the organization of the county committee, it'll certainly be doing things. In direct violation of the peace statement by the Colonel is the frantic fear expressed by party faithfuls who for a week endeavored to dissuade Gray from using the crowbar on Gray and Thompson. Tears and threats availed not. Walt is set, says he; and he's going thru with it, by heck. He'll "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may." The outcome can't be any worse for Craig than if the present situation continued. He'd have another two years anyway, but he is determined to hang on until January 1, 1925, instead of making his little bow and saying adieu to the other boys on the board in 1923.

So, dear readers, it's plain to be seen that instead of narrowing the breach in the Republican ranks, it's becoming wider and critical folks who rushed to the Republican banner in the fall election are becoming bewildered by the gyrations of the hungry officers-elect and that bewilderment will turn to disappointment and disgust if the tactics so plentifully employed are continued for any length of time.

As things now frame up, Gray and Thompson are frightened, but are "standing pat," while Colonel Gale shouts right out loud that it's a matter between Craig and the election board. Knowing how wide the chasm is between the G. O. P. "organization" and Sir Walter, one can easily understand why the Colonel "horned in" with the hazard that "the organization has no reason to believe that any mistake in counting the ballots has been made."

Attorney T. R. Hamilton is handling Craig's interests and being the kind of a lawyer who doesn't take a case unless he believes there's merit to it, there's reason for Gray and Thompson to shake.

After weary weeks of waiting, much stewing and fussing and mulling around, the Republican controlled board of county commissioners has "gone and done it." The prediction made more than a fortnight ago by this watchdog of political maneuvers that one Glen Wallace, defeated Republican candidate for clerk of courts, would be chosen as commissioner clerk, came true at 4 p. m. Thursday of last week when the name of Wallace, who had been endorsed for the job by the Republican executive committee, was placed in nomination as a successor to Bernard Halloran, who resigned on November 10.

Wallace was "put over" by the aid of the Democratic member, James Mackenzie, who voted with Gray. Craig wouldn't vote for Wallace; not he. He wanted Herbert Neuffer shoved into the vacated berth, but he misread the signs. Then Gray tried to get former Memorial Hall Custodian Christy reinstated, ousting D. W. Dorris. Mackenzie switched on this proposition, standing with Craig, who refused to vote, and Mackenzie did likewise. Dorris is still on the job and the chances are that he'll stay there, as long as he desires, or possibly until the personnel of the board is changed next September.

when the skids'll probably be adjusted under him.

With Craig and Gray "fitting and fouting" over the disposition of the "spoils," Good Roads Jim, as Mackenzie is known to countrywide fame, can well afford to just look on and smile. There are heaps of chances that the list of changes Gray had in mind to engineer will fall short of realization.

And here's another fact you can munch. That Bernie Halloran isn't still commissioner clerk is due wholly and solely to his own desires. He resigned to take a place in charge of the recreational rooms at the K. C. Home and refused to reconsider when he was assured that he could remain. In fact, after Craig and Gray got their legs tangled in the consigned political sticky fly paper, Craig didn't see a chance for his choice, Neuffer, and voted against the acceptance of Halloran's resignation. But it was too late. Bernie had already made other arrangements for the future, after deciding that he wouldn't go to Chicago, as he intended.

Thus, altho "first blood" must be accredited to Gray in the commissioner "feed," it should be remembered that it wasn't Republican unanimity that served as the gore letting implement.

When the time arrives for the selection of men under the terms of the law to appraise Allen-co property, fixing new tax valuations as provided for in an order promulgated by the state tax commission, it is more than a safe guess that there'll be patriots aplenty ready and willing to assume the "burdens" of such a task—provided the remuneration is attractive.

And it's going to be wonderful, too, the number of persons who will suddenly develop a knowledge of real estate values that has heretofore been hidden even from themselves. However, if any there be who become obsessed with the belief that appraising property is going to be all sugar and honey, 'twill be well for these to take stock and consider a few things of stern reality before they make the plunge.

Appraising property is one of the "tackiest" things that falls to the duty of man, as those who have essayed it soon learn. Luckless individuals sometimes store up for themselves lifelong enemies when they start out to determine the taxable value of some other person's property. Not desiring to discourage anyone, yet the fact remains that it's a job for experts and the performance of a duty without fear or favor.

Governor-to-be Harry L. Davis apparently has won his first battle in the matter of party procedure, even before being inducted into office. Harry appears to be something more than a tax spending mayor of Cleveland and a duck hunter between times.

Davis wants it known, good and plenty, that he is fervent having a "steering committee" telling him where to get on and get off after he's Governor, and it now appears likely that the "guardians" named to keep Harry on the track will be fired before they are hired. For the committee appointments were only projected and in view of the fact that Davis doesn't go on the job until January 1st there won't be anything to do before that time save anticipate.

Governor Harry wants to do his talking direct to the legislature. He doesn't propose to have a meddling, meddling steering committee acting as messenger boy between his swivel chair and the "control" of the legislature. Zealous guardians of the "interest" of the G. O. P. while Harry was absent in the south, emphasized the selection of the personnel of the committee, but Davis kicked and bludgeoned dead committee.

In the aftermath of the recent election it was a standing joke among exultant Republicans that they were unable to find anyone who would admit voting the Democratic ticket. That was rubbing it in quite strenuously, but the Democrats, remembering the discomfiture of the G. O. P. lads four and eight years ago, were good losers.

They saw in the future, with good reason therefore, that exultation on the part of the Republicans would soon lapse into a realization of the fact that when they get on the job it isn't going to be a time for jollity or jollifying, but that hard work with many problems to face will be their portion.

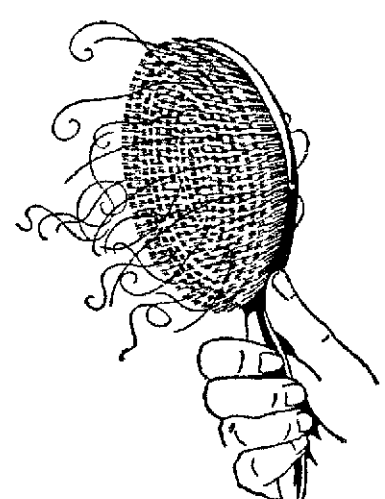

Having turned over to the Republican party all branches of the government, the people responsible for the "robuke" administered the Democratic administration, will expect wonderful things of the incoming administration. But, being only human 'tis quite likely that the results will not come up to specifications. The Democrats will scarcely refuse to cooperate with the Republicans for the general welfare, but if failure comes, the people will know where to place the blame.

And by the way, do you ever meet a Democrat nowadays who is downhearted? Of course you don't.

Congressman Simon D. Fess isn't quite decided whether he'll push in the next congress a bill to re-establish the requirement of ships flying the American flag to pay tolls for passing thru the Panama canal, or whether he'll lend his time and effort to a measure designed to bring

Advertising Rates Cheaper than in 1915-'16

Very few merchants realize that Actual Distribution is the BIG factor in advertising rates.

We have merchants who tell us that our rate is too high, yet these same merchants paid a higher rate on the distribution in 1914 than they do now.

Advertising is sold on a basis of PER THOUSAND homes reached. It should be compared to mailing circulars or letters. If you buy 6,760 postage stamps certain it is you will pay less than for 18,000 stamps.

THE NEWS circulation rates are REALLY and TRULY advanced, and when paper, which we hope it will do, ever comes down to pre-war basis, or near it, subscription rates will also come down.

BUT ADVERTISING RATES ARE CHEAPER

BASED ON DISTRIBUTION (circulation) News Advertising rates are lower than in 1915-'16, and are actually LOWER than any other newspaper of its class in Ohio.

This is made possible by greater efficiency of News labor and departmental operation.

In a recent summary of 17 newspapers compiling a percentage cost system, The Lima News showed it was operated in every department more efficiently and more economically except in two particulars—The News paid its labor more PER MAN and it spent 12% more money in editorial features.

In other words, The News was weak in percentages, because it gave its readers more news service.

The Margin of Profit on an inch of advertising in The Lima News was less than 1c in November. If our minimum rate was reduced 2c an inch, The News would sooner or later go into a receivership.

Volume Alone makes it possible for us to sell at our present rate. Some over 33% of that volume is foreign advertising, not placed by Lima advertisers at all.

deals with these and a mass of other mysterious questions arising from the discovery of the body of a murdered man by John Spargo, of the London "Watchman." How the case stretched back across a span of fifty years, how it threatened to implicate the father of the girl with whom Spargo was in love, and how it worked out to a final and totally unexpected conclusion, is told in daily installments of this suspense-laden story.

"The book which is apparently being read these days by all our notables and about which, it must be confessed, the chief mystery is how President Wilson contrived to lay the darned thing aside each day after a stint of only four chapters."

LOCAL HIGH SCHCOLS PREPARE FOR BASKET BALL SEASON

SOUTH HI STUDENTS HOPEFUL OF SECURING A NEW ATHLETIC FIELD—BLUFFTON COLLEGE STARTS PRACTICE WITH 35 PLAYERS REPORTING

SOUTH HI MAY GET NEW FIELD FOR ATHLETICS NEXT YEAR

A project now in its infancy which will revolutionize sports in South Hi is being promoted by South Side boosters and is seemingly meeting with popular approval.

If proper action is taken by the school board, a dump to the west of South Hi, owned by the school board, will be made into a modern football field, a baseball diamond, track and tennis courts.

A wall will be constructed around the entire field, making it one of the best athletic grounds in this city.

Guy Butler, a member of the school board, is strong for the project and will support such action to the limit.

He believes that South Hi deserves a little recognition, since athletics is so well established at Central Hi.

It would not take a large expenditure of funds to make such a field. A sewer is now being put in on St. John's-ave, immediately west of the field, and this dirt can be bought very cheap and possibly it will not cost anything according to those in close touch with the situation.

Coach Judge Jackson has volunteered to recruit a body of students to level the field and construct the wall if the school board will buy the lumber. Bleachers would also be built.

HAVE POOR FIELD

As it is now, South Hi football players have to play on a gravelled field. Many get injured in practice and it is actually dangerous. When they play a game South Hi fans are compelled to travel across the city to the College grounds. This keeps many from attending and it is believed such a field would pay for itself in a short time and athletics in South Hi could be put on a paying basis.

At the next meeting of the school board Tuesday night, it is probable that action will be taken on the project. Prof. Graham, faculty manager of South Hi athletics, and Coach Judge Jackson will probably appear at the meeting and explain the bad conditions that now exist at the school.

It is pointed out that if such a field is provided, many boys who now leave school to go to work in the shops would be lured to remain and finish their studies.

Superintendent J. E. Collins is said to be taking a great deal of interest in the new plans and it is believed that he will support an appeal for an appropriation Tuesday night.

TULANE HAS POOR SHOW IN GAME

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Detroit University defeated Tulane 7 to 0 here Saturday on a snow field.

The heat of the sunny south seemed to affect the Michigan Bull Dogs. Although they charged the Tulane line repeatedly, they seemed unable to get up momentum.

Detroit's only score came in the first period and after that the Tulane line held like a stone wall.

The lone score resulted from a forward pass, Fitz to Bahan, a Shreveport boy. This netted the Michigan boys 15 yards and placed the ball on Tulane's five-yard line. Detroit had worked the ball to that position by a series of hard bucks. On the play Lauer went off tackle for the touchdown and Bahan kicked goal.

After that the ball switched up and down the field and both goal posts were in danger, but on each occasion the lines held.

BOWLING TO START AT K. OF C.

Bowling plans as to be completed this afternoon for the formation of the K. of C. sixteen club bowling league which the promoters are making efforts to get under way to the extent of commencing the schedule of forty-eight games that each club will roll during the season.

It was thought at first to delay the commencement of the league schedule until after the holidays, but many of the pin knights are desirous to get into action as soon as possible and have urged the officers of the new league to get the schedule under way so as to permit the opening games to be rolled the coming week.

Dan Diamond, president of the newly formed association of pin men, is endeavoring to comply with the request of the bowlers and it is possible to complete the preliminary work necessary before the first games can be bowled and which will be determined at today's meet of the sixteen team representatives that have entered a club in the organization. The meeting has been called for 2 o'clock.

Six picked teams from the Kiwanis club will get together Monday night at the K. of C. alleys for match games. It is thought that the purpose of the gathering together of the thirty followers of the mineralite sphere has as its aim the wedding out of the best bowling material that can be uncovered in their organization which would be formed into one or two teams with sufficient strength to accept challenges that it is said have been coming to the Kiwanis club from their strongest athletic rivals remembered from the past summer as the Rotary club.

BLUFFTON TO HAVE A FAST B. B. TEAM

Prospects for a very successful basketball season at Bluffton College are very promising this year. There are thirty-five players out for the team. Eight letter men are back in school. All of these fellows are showing good form and are determined to make it the best season ever at Bluffton. The Freshman material this year looks better than ever before.

The team, the having a stiff schedule, will play several independent teams during the Christmas vacation to get in better condition for the hard games of the season.

A feature of the schedule this year is a seven day trip thru Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. This trip will be taken from the 21st to the 28th of January, a game being played every day.

The student body is strongly behind the team and are expecting great things from the squad and the team is determined to deliver the goods.

Bluffton will open their season against the strong Ohio Northern team on Dec. 15th. This game will be played at Bluffton.

The schedule is as follows:
Dec. 1, Ohio Northern University at Ada.

OHIOANS ARE DOWNED BY BUFFALO

NEW YORK — The well-known "Indian sign" fell before the "Swede" Youngstrum, the blonde guard of Dartmouth and the all-American team of 1919 beat Indian Jim Thorpe in a professional football game.

The Buffalo All-Americans, beat the Canton Bull Dogs, 7 to 3 before a crowd of 7,600.

Youngstrum grabbed a kick blocked by himself in the third quarter, and ran ten yards for a touchdown. Thorpe kicked a goal from placement in the same period.

"BREAKERS" FREQUENT
The low scores of both elevens resulted from "breaks."

In the middle of the third period Thorpe punted one of his boots that averaged 50 yards to Buffalo's ten-yard line. On the first play, Pat Smith, of Michigan, fumbled and Lowe, the old Fordham star, recovered for Canton on Buffalo's 12-yard line.

Thorpe and Guyon failed on three tentative passes. The Buffalo line and then Thorpe made his third effort for a goal successful. From the 20-yard line, he kicked a perfect goal from placement.

Close to the end of the first period, the break for Buffalo came. Thorpe's kick blocked.

Thorpe was on his own 25-yard line back for a punt out of danger. The great "Swede" Youngstrum flung himself thru the line, blocked the kick and then chased the bounding ball back to the ten-yard line where he scooped it from the ground and trotted over the line for a touchdown. Wilson kicked goal.

The inability of both teams to execute the open game, was the one line of difference that the experts were able to draw between the two "pro" organizations and the big collegiate elevens of the east. Not one forward pass was completed.

AMERICAN LEGION BASKET BALL SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

AFTER having been defeated twice in the past week, once by Celina and the other time by St. Marys, the local American Legion quintet is bound that they are going to make it 50-50 by winning their two games scheduled for this week.

Wednesday night they will play the Kenton Reds at Kenton. This team is known all over this section of the state as a championship outfit and the Legion boys are anticipating the battle of their lives to win the game.

Friday night they bring the Mansfield Liberties here for their second home game at Memorial Hall.

The Mansfield team is managed by Johnny Newton, the well known featherweight who fought here several times.

At Kenton Friday night, the Legion team will take the Garfield girls outfit to play the Kenton high school girls in a preliminary.

Manager Costello announced Saturday night that the Legion's schedule to date is:

Dec. 17, Toledo Olympic Club at Lima.

Dec. 23, St. Marys at Lima.

Dec. 30, Grove City, (Pa.) College at Lima.

Jan. 7, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. at Lima.

Jan. 14, Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. at Lima.

Jan. 21, Lamb's of Galion at Lima.

Jan. 28, New York Nationals at Lima.

Feb. 4, Celina at Lima.

Feb. 11, Alliance at Lima.

The schedule is one on which appears several of the most prominent cago squads in the nation. The New York Nationals are known from coast to coast.

The calibre of others teams is known by all followers of the sport.

JOE STECHER IS TO RETIRE

NEW YORK—Joe Stecher, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, plans to retire from the wrestling game after this season, he said today.

In preparation for his contest here on December 13, with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, Stecher has cancelled all matches in order to be in the best possible form against the Kentucky grappler.

WEST EXCELS THRU OPEN FOOTBALL, EXPERT SAYS

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK — When Gabriel, or whoever acts in the tooting role, blows the last horn, perhaps an argument will be ended on the relative merit of eastern and western football.

Until some goldenrod genius invents a process by which the best team in the west will be pitted annually against the best team in the east, both sections will have grounds for argument.

But the same genius first must patent a means of establishing the best team in the east and west to fight it out.

Just now, with schedules made up almost a year in advance, there is no way of doing either.

HARD TO FORECAST

The difficulties in anticipating what teams will be contenders a year later are so insurmountable that the only solution of the problem seems to be post-season games between sectional champions established by elimination.

The difficulty encountered in trying to forecast contenders a year in advance is well illustrated by the experience of Penn and Yale in two instances this past season.

Colgate had one of the strongest teams in the east last year. Yale had a fair team, but was severely criticized for arranging a "pink tie" schedule. Yale, therefore, went out last winter and booked a game with Colgate.

Colgate this season was almost as bad as who was good last year and Yale found another set-up on her hands, winning 21 to 7.

PENN SURPRISED

Penn on the other hand, had a very heavy schedule and was looking around for something soft. She picked on Virginia Military Institute for a "practice game." The Southern Cadets brought on a team that beat the Quakers, 27 to 7.

Figures aren't worth the paper they're scribbled on in football, but under the existing conditions, the debate of both sections have to be based on figures.

Here are this season's figures on east-west tilts:

Favoring the east—Penn State 20, Nebraska 0; Harvard 31, Cente' geographically, but western practically; 14; Harvard 21, Valparaiso 0; Washington and Jefferson 49, Kalamazoo 0; Boston College 13, Marquette 2.

Favoring the west—Notre Dame 27, Army 17; Detroit 39, Fordham 0.

Football in the west isn't based upon the foundation the game rests on in the east. Systems of long standing in the major eastern universities perhaps establish sounder defense and more stable offense.

Along conservative lines of the old massed game the east was better than the west.

GAME IS CHANGED

But—the advent of the forward pass has revolutionized the old game. Despite the attempts of the old eastern reactionaries to discredit and ignore the new game, the past season has proved beyond doubt that the forward pass is here to stay and that the team which excels in the open game is the team that is going to win with only fair line play and an ordinary charging backfield.

The west is years ahead of the east in ultra-open work. Coaches of the west grasped the situation quicker and went after the new game.

Notre Dame brought the heretofore infant to the east and achieved such success with it that the east opened its eyes and started to learn the game. The west kept opening new fields of possibilities and the east never has caught up.

The open game is here and established. It is the game now. Without doubt the west is far superior at

CENTRAL AND SOUTH BASKETBALL SQUADS ARE BEING PICKED

By Bill Cunningham, Staff Correspondent.

The basketball season has opened in full swing at Central Hi.

With over thirty fellows out for the team, among them a number of old stars, the prospects for a successful season are very bright. The Central will remain in the Trolley League this year, there is only one or two teams in the League that Central is not confident of defeating.

The student body is strong for Central to "lead the League."

This has been their slogan thru the football season and tho they were unsuccessful, they are satisfied with the showing they made and are confident that if the "breaks" are not all against them they will accomplish their ideal by the basketball team.

Great things are also expected by Central when their team enters the Delaware tournament. Central teams have had hard luck in recent years in pairing off with excellent teams in their first games and have been eliminated.

Central Hi has a stiff schedule this year. As formerly they will play in the Trolley League, playing two games with all teams. Two games will be played in December to get the team in good condition for the League schedule.

| SOUTH HI | |
|------------|--------------------------|
| Dec. 18th. | Central at Urbana. |
| Dec. 22nd. | Central vs Fremont |
| Jan. 7th | Central vs Bowling Green |
| Jan. 14th. | Central at Findlay |
| Jan. 21st. | Central vs Tiffin |
| Jan. 28th. | Central at South |
| Feb. 3th. | Central at Fostoria |
| Feb. 11th. | Central at Bowling Green |
| Feb. 18th. | Central vs Findlay |
| Feb. 28th. | Delaware Tournament |
| Mar. 4th. | Central at Tiffin |
| Mar. 11th. | Central vs South |
| Mar. 18th. | Central vs Fostoria |

This year the fans feel that it is time for Central to go thru the tournament landing in the semi or the finals. A larger crowd than ever before are expected to attend the tournament this year which will be held the last few days of February.

Practice has been held several nights the past week and some undiscovered pit-shooters have been found. The letter men that are back this year are in their old form, if not improved and are expected to form a strong nucleus for the team.

Brunk last year's letter man, will not be on the floor this year until late in the season. Douglass is expected to come out this week.

2 GAMES THIS MONTH
Central will play two games in December before the Trolley League opens. The first game will be played at Urbana on Dec. 18. Their opening game promised to be a stiff battle for the boys as Urbana has played several games already this year and has a good team. A large bunch of rooters are counting on going with the team to Urbana.

Central's other pre-league game is with Fremont. This game will be played here on Dec. 22. Little is known of Fremont's prospects for a team this year but as their record is good the game will be interesting.

Coach Detrick is showing the candidates some new and clever plays. It is not known definitely when the squad will be out. Some are expecting it this week, while others are of the opinion it will be much later.

BURKHARDT CHANGED
Last year's center Burkhardt, the only letter man back, will probably play forward this year. He is showing up better than his old form which was very good and is expected to make a hard, clever, player.

Other possible forwards judged from their first practices are: Ireland, Poling and Hammond. For the guard position, Coach Bacone expects Weingardner, Williams or Poling to land on the first team tho there is plenty of other material which may develop more promising later in the season. All of these fellows are well known in Lima from their football ability where they made excellent records this year.

Among the mass of material three other fellows are showing rare ability. They are Quillen, Shaw and Burk.

THE new Scripps-Booth Six-Cylinder Roadster is a fit companion and servant for professional and business men, because in itself it typifies the qualities which they admire.

Distinguished appearance and convenience are thoughtfully built into this attractive model. The adjustable seat—the spacious carrying compartments—the really handy side curtains—and the wide doors are the last words in Roadster utility.

The many refinements added to the chassis assure dependability. Longer wheelbase and longer and wider springs give increased riding comfort. A large braking area insures safety while the Six-Cylinder valve-in-head motor provides an abundance of smooth, economical power.

Gipp has been ill with pneumonia here for more than a week.

LIMA LEADS ARE WALLOPED

The Lima Leads were defeated Saturday night at Waynesfield by the Waynesfield team of the American Legion. The game was fast one, as is indicated by the close score of 18 to 16.

Up to the final 3 minutes of play the Lima team led, but a rally staged by the Waynesfield quintet enabled them to win the game by a single field goal.

Roadster started for the Leads.

BIG TEN COACHES BEGIN COMPILING DOPE ON THEIR CHANCES FOR WINNING CHAMPIONSHIP NEXT YEAR—STATE LOSES 4 GRIDIRON PLAYERS

OHIO STATE ELEVEN WILL LOSE FOUR STAR PLAYERS

COLUMBUS—While four men will be lost from Ohio State's championship football team by graduation next spring, present indications point to as strong a team for next fall as the one that took the western conference title this season. The loss of Stinchcomb, Williams, Nemecek and Wieche will be felt but the splendid freshmen material available and a probable shifting of some of the veterans is counted upon to more than neutralize this effect.

One of the biggest holes on the line to be plugged next year is Nemecek's position at center. It is possible that Trott, who started the season at guard, and was later shifted to tackle when Spiers was hurt, will be used there. He is a shifty player, a veteran of two years and excellent on forward pass defense. Another possibility is Young, a freshman tackle. The latter is considered one of the most promising freshmen linemen of recent years.

SEVERAL "COMERS"

Several strong men loom up to contest for Wieche's place at guard. Most prominent among these is Lang, who played a year at Notre Dame, and Petcoff, a freshman tackle. "Tarzan" J. Taylor, this year's veteran, will occupy the other guard position. At tackle Huffman, captain of this year's team, and Spiers will be back, while at ends there will be available Myers, Slicker and N. Workman—all veterans. Huffman, Slicker and Myers will end their intercollegiate football careers next year.

In the backfield "Hoge" Workman, upon whom much of the honor of this year's championship rests, will be back at the pivot position with Don Wiper, a good understudy. At halves in addition to Bliss, Henderson, Cott, Dolg and Blair there will be several first class freshmen to develop. Among these will be John Stuart, of Huntington, W. Va., captain of this year's freshman team, who is said to come the nearest to filling Stinchcomb's shoes, and Boldt and Kennedy. Another possibility at half is Gustave Aschman, a letter man from the University of Pittsburg.

TWO DOUBTFUL

It is possible that Henderson may be graduated next spring and there is a probability that Harry Bliss will not return to school next fall. Henderson played two years at Oberlin before coming to Ohio State. His fall before indications point to the shifting of Blair from half to full. Blair has shown fine line bucking ability and defensive playing in the two games. He weighs around 175 pounds. In addition Charlie Taylor, who played practically the entire season for Williams when he was hurt, Weaver and Isaac—both veterans—will be eligible. Kurtzhauf from the freshman team is also considered good material.

BASKET BALL SPRINGS UP AT W. C.

SPRINGFIELD — With fourteen Ohio conference games and two exhibition games with Ohio State and Princeton already scheduled, Wittenberg College basketball players have begun training for the coming season.

Wittenberg's basketball prospects for the coming season are bright. Four of the fast quintet which represented Wittenberg over the state last season will be back in the game this winter. Besides these Coach Godfrey has an abundance of new material from which to build a team that ought to make a strong bid for the state championship.

FOUR MEN RETURN

"The four old men will have to step lively to hold their places," says Coach Godfrey. "Some of the new men are going to give the four regulars a fight for their positions." Wittenberg will be captained this year by Raymond Detrick, for two years forward and captain of the "All-Ohio" quintet, who is considered the most accurate basket shooter in the Ohio conference.

Besides Detrick, Wittenberg will have Wm. Troutwein, all star center and biggest basketball player in Ohio; Wilbur Eiter, sensational football and basketball star; and George Hall, member of All-Ohio second team last year. Some of the new candidates for the regular team are Lang, Burgnor and Stambarger, who played on last year's second team, and Repp, Heberling, Hummon and Horn of last year's freshman squad.

TO PLAY OHIO STATE

The Wittenberg quintet will be first seen in action against Ohio State on December 11th in Columbus. On New Year night Wittenberg will meet Princeton at Springfield. This game will be a double attraction as the Princeton quintet is captained by Stanley Netts, a Springfield lad and a former Wittenberg star.

Wittenberg has no games scheduled between January 1st and 21st, but Coach Godfrey is trying to book some fast teams for that period. As it stands now, Wittenberg will open her conference season with Kenyon at Springfield on January 21st.

Wittenberg's schedule as far as it has been arranged is as follows:

Exhibition games:

Dec. 11, Ohio State at Columbus.

PETE HERMAN IS TO MEET JOE LYNCH

NEW YORK—Pete Herman, the broad shouldered Australian dwarf has been hiding in the bushes with the bantamweight title for two years. He's coming out with it December 22, and he'll go right with it out.

So believe 10,000 fans who saw the lean, gaunt Celtic Joe Lynch knock out Jack Sharkey, the conqueror of Jimmy Wilde, in Madison Square Garden Thursday night. The 15th and last round had gone forty-five seconds, when Lynch placed a water-soaked right glove under Sharkey's ear and the referee counted ten while the fallen boy was making a game effort to get off his hands and knees.

PARTNERS SHARKEY

Herman, after being introduced with the announcement that he would give the winner a chance at his own crown, sat near Sharkey's corner and saw the plump little bantam badly beaten from the start by a relentless long shadow that boxed like a master on the defense and bit like a trip-hammer with punishing rights and lefts.

Herman can't hit with the force that Sharkey had in some of his wild long swings that landed in several rounds with the result that visibly annoyed Lynch. Herman can take the punishment. He had Sharkey nearly out in several rounds before his game spirit was crushed by a bundle of fury that chased him all over the ring, on the ropes, in the ropes and under the ropes.

LYNCH SOME HITTER

Lynch Saturday night was the peer of any bantam in the country and unless he suffers one of those peculiar lapses of his in the meantime, Herman had better receive a sudden cable summons from England, he wants to take into his fight with Wilde.

Around 121 pounds Sharkey is almost invincible, but at 118 pounds Thursday night, he was weakened, lacked endurance and was minus his kick in his punches. Lynch weighed 117 pounds and he slid around like a phantom, with a left always in Sharkey's face and a snappy, short driving right that ocked his opponent every time it went over.

In the previous meeting which went 15 rounds to a draw, Sharkey worked most effective with a lunging, jumping attack, and a wide right swing to the side of Lynch's head. He tried it Thursday night, but every time, with punches timed to a second, Lynch would pop his left out in Sharkey's mouth and beat him to the punch.

Jan. 1, Princeton at Springfield. Conference schedule: Jan. 21, Kenyon at Springfield. Jan. 22, Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.

Jan. 28, Ohio Northern at Springfield.

Feb. 4, Miami at Springfield.

Feb. 5, Western Reserve at Cleveland.

Feb. 7, Cincinnati at Springfield.

Feb. 11, Akron at Springfield.

Feb. 16, Ohio Wesleyan at Springfield.

Feb. 21, Akron at Akron.

Feb. 25, Heidelberg at Springfield.

Feb. 26, Cincinnati at Cincinnati.

March 2, Denison at Springfield.

March 4, Wooster at Springfield.

March 8, Miami at Oxford.

All of the Springfield games will be played in Memorial Hall which has the largest basketball floor and affords the best seating capacity in that city. Basketball is a popular sport among Springfield people.

About 4000 saw the Wittenberg-Akron state smashing game at Springfield last February, which was the record basketball crowd of the Ohio conference last year.

In the past few years Wittenberg has made a great basketball reputation. For two seasons the Wittenberg basketballers have been right on the verge of the championship, the loss of two or three games keeping them from the coveted title.

This year "King" Godfrey is confident that he can pilot his team through the entire season without a defeat.

FOLLOWERS OF BASEBALL ARE WONDERING IF SOME OF THESE STARS WON'T NS IN 1921—SOME SAY 'YES,' SOME 'NO' BE SOLD BY THE TIME THE SEASON OPE

Deals negotiated by the big league clubs the last few seasons have shown that no star is too valuable to a club to be traded or sold. The sale of Babe Ruth by the Red Sox after he had set a world's record of twenty-nine home runs in the 1919 campaign, the sale of Carl Mays, the purchase of Tris Speaker and other transactions are instances. And so, we may expect almost any kind of deal this winter. The purchase of Rogers Hornsby of the Cards by the Giants for $200,000 is talked of. Above are six of the big stars of the American league who would have seemed to be unbuyable a few years ago, until the moguls began to talk in big figures. Now they may change teams. However, it would take a bankful of coin to grab off Babe Ruth or Eddie Collins. Each is just about a whole team.

SPLIT THREATENS IN BIG TEN MEETING

CHICAGO—Another split in the big ten conference was threatened here Saturday night as a result of a deadlock between Wisconsin and Ohio State representatives over the staging of next fall's annual Ohio-Wisconsin game.

Both schools demanded that the game be held on its home grounds and Coach John R. Richards, of Wisconsin, in a statement declared he would sever football relations with Ohio if the latter refused to agree to play at Madison next fall.

The conference also voted against lengthening the schedule to nine games.

Further indications of rift in the big ten circles came when it was announced that Chicago had dropped Michigan from its football schedule.

Coach Yost of the Wolverine eleven, softened the announcement with a statement that it didn't mean hard feelings.

The Maroons, Yost said, have taken on a hard schedule for next year and the scheduling of a game with Michigan would mean five hard games in a row. An important decision reached was to the effect that players hereafter must be numbered.

As a result of the Ohio-Wisconsin rumormongering, the big ten experienced difficulty in fixing its schedule.

Two intersectional games were scheduled by big ten teams. Chicago will play Princeton at Princeton on a two-year agreement and Indiana will play Harvard.

The football schedule includes the following games:

Minnesota at Columbus, October 15.

Ohio State at Ann Arbor October 22.

Ohio State at Chicago, November 5.

Illinois at Columbus November 12.

Michigan at Champaign Oct. 29.

Michigan at Madison Nov. 12.

Minnesota at Ann Arbor Nov. 19.

Northwestern at Lafayette Nov. 5.

Franklin at Bloomington Sept. 24.

Wabash at Bloomington Oct. 1.

Indiana at Cambridge Oct. 8.

Indiana at Minneapolis Oct. 22.

Indiana vs. Notre Dame at Indianapolis Nov. 5.

Indiana at Iowa City, Nov. 12.

Indiana at Lafayette Nov. 9.

Iowa vs. Notre Dame at Iowa City Oct. 8.

Iowa at Lafayette Oct. 22.

Purdue at Lafayette Oct. 15.

Purdue vs. Northwestern at Lafayette Nov. 15.

BIG BOUTS SCHEDULED FOR GOTHAM IN '21

NEW YORK—Boxing and wrestling are both going to prosper in the metropolis this winter from the looks of things.

The fistie game, always in demand, is going like a house afire. Fifteen-round bouts to decisions give the fight fan his money's worth and he seems to have plenty of the necessary, for every good fight card staged here is witnessed by capacity crowds, especially those staged by Tex Rickard in Madison Square Garden.

The lure of the "kale" has overcome the fear of decisions that caused some of our best little boxers, among them champions, to steer clear of New York when boxing first came back. One by one they are being hooked by the promoters to enter decision bouts, and before the winter is over every champion in this country will have shown his wares in New York.

The coming Dempsey-Brennan fight in the Garden December 14 is going to pack the house, not that the fight public expects to see Dempsey and a Tartar in Brennan, but because everybody who follows the game wants to get a first look at the new champion and size him up. Dempsey has not fought in New York or vicinity since he whipped Fred Fulton at Newark and the fans want to get a line on his condition.

The fact that Dempsey is matched with "Carpenter" who has already shown his wares to Gotham fans, even the Bat Levinaky didn't keep him busy at it very long, loads color to any bout in which the champion appears. So Dempsey and Brennan are in for a fine melon cut.

John Kilbane, Jack Britton and Pete Herman are being sought by Tex Rickard, not to mention other promoters in this section. Kilbane is wary, and so far has failed to fall for any offer made him, but he is only human, and sooner or later he will accept a match with some good featherweight. Herman, too, has his doubts about the fifteen-round route to a decision, and he is holding back. Britton, as usual, is ready to step in at any time. Johnny Wilson, who has been a rabbit ever since he was handed the decision that made him the middleweight champion, doesn't even speak the language, so the promoters have given him up as hopeless. Wilson is the real comeback kid.

MAT GAME POPULAR

But with all the success of boxing the old mat game is holding its own. Strangler Lewis recently won the right to meet Joe Stecher when he wrestled for Jack Curley at the Seventy-second Regiment Armory before a packed house, and downed Wladek Zbysko in an hour and twenty-five minutes with the deadly headlock.

PROMOTERS GET BUSY AND ARE ARRANGING FOR BIG CLASSIC

It became known in Lima sporting circles Saturday that the next boxing card here will be staged New Year's afternoon under auspices of the Spanish War Veterans at Memorial Hall.

For some time it has been a current rumor that such action was being contemplated, but it was not until at a meeting of the Spanish War Vets in the council chamber Friday night that it was discussed by that body.

Definite action of the organization was not taken, but several of the leading promoters said Saturday that it was a sure thing and that an announcement of the event could be made at this time without fear of it being talked off.

At the meeting Friday night it is said that a few prominent members held back definite action until the advisability of holding a bout was more fully investigated.

The promoters got busy Saturday and it seems as if everything has been lined up for the occasion. Memorial Hall has been secured and a matchmaker, whose name has been withheld, has been selected.

JACKSON TO REFEREE
Judge Jackson, it is rumored, has been selected to referee the main bout.

It is probable that Don Baxter and Babe Brennan, two local pugs, will appear on the card. Brennan is under the management and training of Ed. Schlatter, who claims him to be the scrappiest fighter in Northern Ohio. He challenges any fighter at 128 pounds.

Baxter's ability to fight is known to every local fan and his appearance alone should be a big drawing card.

DAYTON SCHOOL IS DEFEATED

DAYTON—Oak Park High School football team of Chicago defeated Steele high of this city here Saturday 19 to 6. The game was played in a sea of mud and a heavy rain, before 4,000 fans. Two fumbles in the last period on the part of Steele caused by the slippery condition of the ball, gave Oak Park two touchdowns when visiting players recovered the ball and ran over the Steele goal line. It was Steele's only defeat of the season.

MAX BOBLAND IS AGAIN CHAMP

NEWARK, N. J. — Max Bobland, Paulist A. C., former cross-country champion, won the metropolitan two-mile indoor championship here Saturday night in 9:05 2-5.

Jack Driscoll, Boston College record holder for 500 yards, indoors, set such a pace in winning the special 600-yard invitation race that Ted Meredith and Mike Devany were left to quit. The time was 1:29 1-2.

BEAN COLLEGE UNDEFEATED

BOSTON—Boston College brought an undefeated season to a close here Saturday afternoon, by defeating Holy Cross 14 to 3 in a sea of mud before 30,000 spectators. Major Cavanaugh's eleven piled up its victorious points with two touchdowns and a safety.

Charles Carney, the receiving end of the brilliant Walquist-Carney aerial combination, is in bad shape from the Buckeye game. The laments in his left leg were torn so that he will not have the full use of his leg for some time. There is much speculation as to whether he will be able to play basketball, in which he starred last year.

Available regulars for next year are: ends, Carney and Hiestrom; tackle, Olander; guards, Smith and Mohr; backs, Walquist, Crangle and Peden.

Zuppke's plans for 1920 contemplate another hard schedule, with Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota as almost certain opponents. The fiery little coach will insist, however, that the team he meets in the final battle must play the precedent week unless he also takes a rest.

Harry I. McClain returned Saturday from Chicago where he had been attending the Chicago International Livestock show. He purchased four head of imported Cheviot, including the champion ram and ewe.
